"The whispering birth of myriad flying leaves,
Gathered, anon, in countless motley sheaves,
Then scattered far, as on the winged wind,
The mortal nurture of th' immortal mind!"

A failure at 40, a billionaire at 63, Henry Ford on a memorable birthday anniversary gives a rude jolt to the Oiler theory.

The McManus, Tammany's picturesque ward leader, dies of high blood pressure at the age at which Mr. Ford plans his greatest industrial conquests, and if you will dig into the facts of his career you will learn more about ward politics, and city politics, and national politics than can be found in any textbook. Back of the Alderman, the Mayor, the Governor, the Congressman, the Senator and the President is the district leader, and you've got to understand him first.

President Coolidge handles a stick of dynamite and concludes he doesn't look for any lifting of the embargo on arms and munitions to Mexico.

The Chamber of Deputies yields to Poincaré on the new taxation program, and nothing now remains but for Monsieur to decide upon the best way for passing see buck on to the American tourist.

A quarter of a century has passed since Iowa sent the radical Jonathan P. Dolliver to the United States Senate, and the State remained "half and half" until 1908, when Albert B. Cummins, who had risen to power as a railroad baiter, found in the death of the venerable William B. Allison his chance to shine in the national arena. The man who refused to vote for the caucus nominee of his party for President Pro Tempore, lived to hold that office himself, and in turn gave way to the new radicalism whose seeds he had planted. The death of Cummins gives a new angle to the situation in Iowa which will keep the politicians jumping.

But maybe St. Elizabeth's won't need a $5,000,000 building program now that Commissioner Fenning's activities have been curtailed.

The question in the Illinois primaries is not so much the amount contributed by the utility boys as it is how they expected to get it back.

The Methodist bishop who says that Americans should keep out of the finish fight between State and Church in Mexico gives sage advice which he would do well to heed himself.

Henry Ford produces his 14,000,000th auto and his first skydiver. Heaven help us when he shall have produced his 14,000,000th aerolite.

As chairman of the Judiciary, as well as the Foreign Relations committee, Senator Borah could enforce the Eighteenth amendment with one hand, and get us out of the World Court with the other, and we charge the Senate nothing for this idea, either. Here's a chance for Bill to work both sides of the street.

According to the dispatch from Chicago Vice President Dawes is off for Colorado to beat his fishing record, but we suspect he's really off to beat somebody else's.

"Go, stalk the red deer o'er the heather,
Rise, follow the fox if you can!
But, for pleasure and profit together,

Allow me the hunting of Man!"

Somewhere today Patrick Eugene McDermott, of Cleveland, wanted in the Don Mellett murder, feels like the fox when he hears the baying of the hounds, the deer, panting for breath. A nation-wide man-hunt is on, always a thriller.

"Great is the sword and mighty is the pen,
But over all the labouring ploughman's blade—
For on its oxen and its husbandmen
An Empire's strength is laid."

Thus Kipling's tribute, so to speak, to the Farm Bloc. A monument to the memory of the founder of the National Grange is unveiled, one even century after—and Iowa more dissatisfied than ever. It takes more than a Lodge and a Poem to solve the agricultural problem—it takes Herbert Hoover! (Adv.)

No such titanic struggle as that between the Mexican government and the Catholic Church, recalling the religious controversies of the Middle Ages, can long continue without vital reactions on this side of the Rio Grande, but he would be a bold prophet, indeed, who would undertake to forecast its influence upon American politics.

CUMMINS IS DEAD; SUCCUMBS IN IOWA TO A HEART ATTACK

End Comes to Senator Unexpectedly, After a Relapse.

LOST TO BROOKHART IN RECENT PRIMARY

Former Insurgent's Chief Work Was on Rail and Tariff Legislation.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 30 (By A. P.).—Senator Albert B. Cummins, Iowa's outstanding political leader for more than a score of years, died at his home here late today. Death was due to heart disease and followed several years of ill health, which, however, had not interfered greatly with his activities in Washington.

Senator Cummins was stricken suddenly early Thursday morning but rallied, and his condition was not considered critical until this afternoon when he suffered a relapse and the fatal attack, at 4:30 p. m.

The death of the senator came only a few weeks after he returned to Iowa from Washington for his final summer vacation as a senator.

Jubilant Over Defeat.

He had greeted his recent defeat for the Republican senatorial nomination with something akin to jubilation, his close associates said, and already had started dictation of the introduction to the autobiography which he expected to occupy his time for more than a year after his retirement next March, when he would have completed eighteen years of service in the Senate.

Senator Cummins' associates declared tonight that his recent political reversals could not have had any effect upon his health or any bearing upon his illness.

No announcement had been made by relatives here tonight as to plans for funeral services. It was considered likely that services would not be held until Monday, to permit the senator's colleagues to reach Des Moines.

Died at Daughter's Home.

Funeral services may be held, it was said, at the home of Mrs. Hollis A. Rawson, the senator's daughter, where he lived while in Des Moines, and where he suffered the fatal attack.

Surviving him also are five sisters, two brothers, two grandsons and a great-grandson.

Since the death of Mrs. Cummins, the senator had made his home here with two sisters, Miss Margaret and Miss Anne Cummins.

The other sisters of Senator Cummins are Mrs. Lou McHenry and Mrs. Theodore Greife, both of Des Moines, and Mrs. Lyle Sutherland, of Sioux Falls, N. Dak.; J. C. Cummins, a brother, lives here. The other brother, B. F. Cummins, resides in Chicago.

A. F. Myers Is Named To Trade Commission

Paul Smiths, N. Y., July 30 (By A. P.).—Abram F. Myers, of Iowa, was given a recess appointment by President Coolidge today as a member of the Federal Trade Commission.

Mr. Myers, who was born at Fairfield, Iowa, in 1889, succeeds Vernon W. Van Fleet, resigned. He is a Republican and has been senior attorney under the Assistant to the Attorney General in Washington. He was employed in the Department of Justice for many years, rising from a subclerical position.

5 Men Are Buried Under Tons of Rock

Denver, Colo., July 30 (By A. P.).—Five men tonight were buried under a hundred tons of loose rock in the west side of Moffett tunnel being bored under James peak through the continental divide of the Rocky mountains west of here. Little hope is entertained for their recovery alive.

A sixth victim, Hartzell Thompson, who was extricated from the mass of rock, is not expected to live. The five buried are John Adams, shift boss; Patrick Gasway, W. A. Pearson, Henry Ferguson and John Prosek.

TINY FORD MONOPLANE, LONG A SECRET, FLIES

Manufacturer, on His Sixty-Third Birthday, Has Craft Assembled on Field.

WEIGHT IS 350 POUNDS

Detroit, July 30 (By A. P.).—A tiny monoplane, the latest product of the Ford laboratories, in which its details have been jealously guarded for months, was shown to visitors today by Henry Ford.

With a wing spread of 22 feet and a fuselage of 15 feet, the plane is one of the smallest single-seaters ever built. It previously has been successfully tested at the Ford airport here. Today Henry Ford himself started the motor to demonstrate the craft to visitors here to congratulate him on his sixty-third birthday.

Equipped with a three-cylinder, air-cooled motor of French make, the plane weighs only 350 pounds. It is intended, according to Ford officials, to replace the motor with a two-cylinder Ford-built engine, reducing the weight to 310 pounds. With the engine developing 36 horsepower at 1,600 revolutions per minute, and spinning a propeller 6 feet in length, the plane has an estimated speed of 85 miles an hour.

The private demonstration of the craft was given several days ago for Henry and Edsel Ford, the baby plane being assembled on the field. The wings, two 10-foot panels, were brought in automobiles and placed on the ground. The fuselage, in which the motor had been installed, was placed on them and a few bolts made fast. A moment later the "air flier" flew over the field for several minutes.

Members of the inspecting group said the machine was only an experiment. "Whether the Ford organization will ever produce small airplanes in quantities remains to be seen. It is probable that we will build and test others—among them an all-metal craft," they said.

Otto Knapen, 26-year-old German engineer employed in the Ford experimental laboratories, is given credit for designing the plane. Another event celebrated on the manufacturer's birthday was the production of car No. 14,000,000. The machine came off the assembly line a few days ago.

It was only a little more than two years ago that Ford broke all records then existing with production car No. 10,000,000. That was June 4, 1924.

In slightly less than 26 months 4,000,000 more cars have been added.

MISS BARRYMORE, ILL., UNDER SURGICAL CARE

Operation of Thursday May Upset Stage Plans; Has Fought Bad Health.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, July 30.—A specter of ill health again stalks the stage of Ethel Barrymore.

She is in the Fifth Avenue hospital slowly recovering from a serious operation. Her friends were not permitted to see the gifted actress today, but assurance was given at the hospital and by Dr. Louis Rene Kaufman, who performed the operation, that she is progressing as favorably as could be expected.

Illness has upset many of her theatrical ventures in recent years, and the operation performed yesterday may upset plans for her return to the stage. According to Walter J. Kingsley, of the Keith vaudeville circuit, Miss Barrymore was soon to reopen in Sir James M. Barrie's one-act play, "The Twelve-Pound Look."

Miss Barrymore recently was reported to have given up vaudeville bookings for this play, calling for a salary of $3,000 a week, to care for one of her three children who had fallen victim to measles.

MRS. HALL, FREED ON BAIL, SPIRITED AWAY FROM HOME

Widow of Slain, Rector on New York Train With Attorney.

SPECIAL PROSECUTOR LIKELY TO BE NAMED

Warrant Is Out for Former Trooper, Who Previously Took Part in Investigation.

New Brunswick, N. J., July 30 (By A. P.).—Quitting her home through a back entrance, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, accompanied by her New York attorney, Timothy N. Pfeiffer, was spirited away to the Pennsylvania railroad station here, where she boarded a train for New York city.

Reporters and a crowd of curious persons waiting in front of the Hall home were unaware of her departure.

Provides $15,000 Bail.

Somerville, N. J., July 30 (By A. P.).—Mrs. Edward Wheeler Hall, of New Brunswick, regained her liberty tonight in $15,000 bail after having passed 40 hours in Somerset county jail charged with the murder four years ago of her husband, church rector, and his alleged sweetheart, choir singer in his church.

The 49-year-old aristocratic matron was arrested late Wednesday night, after, authorities said, a "mass of new evidence" pointing to her as the slayer of the rector of fashionable St. John's Episcopal church, in New Brunswick, and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, choir singer, had been discovered in an investigation ordered by Gov. Moore and State authorities.

She was released by order of Chief Justice Gummere, to whom defense attorneys appealed today at Point Pleasant.

Accompanied by two of her lawyers and Mrs. Edward Carpenter, her cousin, of New Brunswick, and others, Mrs. Hall emerged from the main entrance of the jail at 7:25 after a sheriff had made a personal appeal to the crowds to stand back.

Mrs. Hall smiled, posed for photographers on the walk leading from the jail entrance, and laughed out loud as the crowds, which failed to heed the sheriff's order, jostled her into her car.

The automobile was pursued by a host of newspapermen and photographers as it left town. Mrs. Hall was dressed in black and wore no veil.

No New Arrests in Sight.

Prosecutor Bergen, of Somerset county, refused to comment on Mrs. Hall's release or on the amount of bail required.

He said that no other arrests were contemplated at present and that the grand jury would not be called into special session to continue the case.

Hospital Is Overcrowded 500 Patients, Report of White Shows.

500 MORE HOUSED IN ALLEGED FIRE-TRAPS

New Fireproof Construction Said to Cost $2,500 to $3,000 a Bed.

St. Elizabeths hospital is seeking a $5,000,000 building program in an effort to relieve congestion which has been the subject of criticism in Congress and which a local grand jury condemned nearly a year ago.

Estimates and plans for a series of new fireproof buildings have been submitted to the budget bureau. They would provide facilities for 1,500 patients, but would permit of an increase in the hospital's present population of only 500, according to Dr. W. A. White, superintendent of the institution.

This means that the institution is overcrowded to the extent of 500 patients now, while the new buildings would take care of another 500 now housed in temporary buildings menaced by fire hazards.

Dr. White sought to launch his building program at the last session, but investigations occupied considerable of his attention and militated generally against any increased expenditure in behalf of the hospital. A deaf ear was also turned to him by the budget bureau at that time, but he hopes to have better success this time.

Criticized by Jury.

The local grand jury in its report in October, 1925, declared that congestion at the hospital was so bad that patients suffering light mental ailments were forced to associate with the hopelessly insane. An investigation was recommended.

There were steps in the direction of an inquiry at the last session, but none of them got very far.

The population of the institution at present numbers more than 4,000 patients, according to Dr. White, and is increasing steadily. Of these patients some 900 are Veterans Bureau charges and about 2,000 are the charges of the District.

Considerable relief would be afforded, it is explained, if the Veterans' Bureau patients were removed but while the bureau's hospital facilities have been greatly expanded it is said they have not yet room for all of the world war veterans at St. Elizabeths. Recently there have been evacuations of these patients to bureau hospitals, but not to an extent to relieve the situation appreciably at St. Elizabeths.

"It has been necessary to inclose many porches to provide necessary accommodations," said Dr. White. "Beds in dormitories had to be put closer together, and day rooms are

CLASHES BEGIN IN MEXICO; CHURCH TREASURE SEALED; PAPAL DIPLOMAT OUSTED

Methodist Bishop Denies Charge That Catholics Are Persecuted

New York, July 30 (By A. P.).—There is no religious persecution in Mexico today, in the opinion of Bishop George A. Miller, resident bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Mexico, who has just returned from Mexico City.

He said in a statement today that Mexico had been forced to use drastic means in the control of the ecclesiastical situation because "the Catholic priests in Mexico have openly refused to comply with the law of the land and have persistently meddled in politics."

He asserted that the Catholic priests have organized an economic boycott, with the openly avowed purpose of bankrupting the country.

"This whole uproar," he said, "is worked up by a hierarchy which is content with not less than the political dominance of the country and demands that its followers give first allegiance to the Pope, and not to the constitution."

Declaring that what Mexico needs from the United States is "intelligent sympathy and moral support," the bishop closed his statement with the assertion: "It looks like a fight to the finish between the Pope and the president, and the least we can do is to keep our hands off."

Asks Prayers of Protestants

New York, July 30 (By A. P.).—This week's issue of the Living Church, a national publication of the Episcopal Church, carries a plea for all Protestants in the United States to pray with Catholics for "the persecuted church in Mexico."

The publication says that suspension of public services by the Catholic Church in Mexico "may, very likely, be followed by like action on our part."

"We hope," it adds, "that many other American Christians than Roman Catholics will carry out the earnest suggestion of the Pope for united prayer on August 1, when the new regime begins."

Chicago, July 30 (By A. P.).—Additional contributions by officials of Illinois public utilities companies to the senatorial campaign fund of Frank L. Smith, chairman of the State commerce commission, were uncovered today by the Senate campaign funds committee before it adjourned the inquiry into the Illinois primary until next Tuesday.

Allen F. Moore, campaign manager for Smith in his successful fight for the Republican senatorial nomination over Senator William B. McKinley, testified that Clement Studebaker, of South Bend, Ind., and Ira C. Copley, of Aurora, Ill., contributed a total of $45,000. This is in addition to the $125,000 which Samuel Insull, Chicago utilities executive, testified he gave.

Studebaker, who made two gifts of $10,000 each to the Smith fund, is one of the purchasers of Senator McKinley's central Illinois utilities. The Senator retains an interest in those utilities and is chairman of the board of the Illinois Light & Power Co.

CALLES SAYS BATTLE WILL BE TO A FINISH

TROOPS PATROL ROADS AS TENSION INCREASES

Crucial Phase in the Religious Controversy Is Expected to Come Today.

Developments yesterday in Mexico's struggle to force obedience by the Catholic Church to the republic's religious laws, were:

Catholics by the hundreds of thousands flocked to religious shrines for last devotional exercises. Mgr. Tito Crespi, in charge of the apostolic legation in Mexico City, was ordered expelled from the country.

Troops were held in readiness for anticipated rioting when the government takes over the churches tomorrow.

Church "annexes" were being locked and sealed to prevent removal of treasures.

Mexican Attorney General stoned by mob. Other clashes with police in Mexico City occur.

A Mexican storekeeper, arrested for shooting an army general, was assassinated on his way to jail.

President Coolidge announced the embargo on the export of arms to Mexico would not be lifted at present.

Methodist bishop in Mexico, in statement, defended President Calles' measures against the Catholic Church.

Mexico City, July 30 (By A. P.). While Catholics of Mexico today gave way to a great manifestation of devotion to their religion and grief as the last few hours slipped by before the new governmental regulations become effective. Mgr. Tito Crespi, in charge of the apostolic legation in Mexico City since the expulsion of Mgr. Caruana, the papal nuncio, was ordered expelled from the country. The order came at the direction of President Calles because the government considered his presence in Mexico "inconvenient."

Mgr. Crespi was given 24 hours to depart, but on intervention of the Italian legation, the time was extended to 40 hours. He will, however, leave tomorrow night for Linden, N. J., where he will visit relatives on the way to Rome.

The extraordinary scenes of religious emotion of the past fortnight marked by the flocking of thousands to their churches and shrines, were surpassed as vast assemblages swamped the cathedral in Mexico City, the shrine of "Our Lady of Guadalupe" and other beloved places of worship.

Poignant Note Sounded.

There was a poignant note at these final services, for tomorrow Catholic priests will withdraw from the performance of their religious offices under the orders of the archbishop of Mexico. Their action is intended as a protest against the government's religious regulations, which they regard as striking at the very heart of the church in Mexico.

As the day drew to a close, the attorney general's office announced that department of justice agents will seal and place under government charge all "annexes" of all churches. By this is meant every church office or structure—except actual places of worship, including the archbishops' and bishops' offices, vestry offices, sacristies and places where treasures are stored.

This order is understood to be for the purpose of preventing the removal of treasures or church property. It is maintained by the government that since the reform law of more than 50 years ago, all church property belongs to the government, although it has allowed the churches to continue in possession.

Crowds stoned Attorney General Ortega and a party of department of justice officials tonight while the officials were closing the annexes of St. Catherine's church.

The officials took refuge in one of the church buildings, where they

COMMERCIAL PLANE WILL BE DEVELOPED, COOLIDGE BELIEVES

Improvements and Invention

ACTION ON FENNING'S SUCCESSOR DELAYED

Mellon's Trip, It Is Stated, Has No Official Object; Merely a Vacation.

Paul Smith's, N. Y., July 30 (By A. P.).—President Coolidge believes that commercial aviation will be developed to the point that it will be commercially possible to carry merchandise as well as passengers in the air.

Although prediction for any industry so new as aviation is looked upon by Mr. Coolidge as uncertain, he feels that with improvements and inventions that can be looked for in aviation a useful and practical commercial field will be opened by the airplane.

Increased attention of the President has been given to the subject as a result of the visit early this week of Edsel Ford, son of the Detroit manufacturer, whose report to Mr. Coolidge on the progress of the Ford interests in aviation was substantially as later given to the press.

When reduced to its lowest common denominator, it was said today in behalf of the President, commercial aviation means the transportation of merchandise and passengers on a convenient basis. It does not mean, it was added, so far as present developments would indicate, the carrying of materials in quantity or necessarily large numbers of passengers.

The facility of any exact prediction, it was pointed out, is shown, for example, when one considers the forecasts made for the telegraph and the telephone in their early days.

Operation Cost High.
The expense of operation is yet high, it was continued, but progress is being made in this direction. The air mail, it was pointed out, is now earning close to one-half of the operating costs not including such overhead as the purchase of planes, a showing better than the Postoffice Department had expected. The route between New York and Chicago is being developed.

Woman M. P. Will Sail To U. S. Second Class

London, July 30 (By A. P.).—The first woman member of parliament ever to cross the Atlantic second class will be Miss Ellen Wilkinson, laborite. She will sail for the United States tomorrow with the British miners' delegation which will appeal for funds to aid the wives and children of the striking miners.

After meeting the officials of the American Federation of Labor at Washington the delegates will carry their appeal through the mining districts of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Illinois and Ohio.

Miss Wilkinson's quarters on the Berengaria consist of an inside stateroom, which she will share with several other women, down between the decks. She has let it be known that if any of her friends want to send bouquets they are to forget the flowers and send the money to swell the fund for aiding the miners' families.

"This is no joy ride, and all the others as well as myself are traveling second class," she said.

Cargo was said to be receiving the largest percentage of income compared to operating cost of any of the air mail routes.

The views of President Coolidge on aviation and government problems were made known during a call at the executive offices in the afternoon. It was his second visit there of the day, he having passed considerable time at his desk in the morning.

Mr. Coolidge, it was said, may be able to go to Plymouth, Vt., next week, for a visit at his boyhood home.

Mellon Not On Business.

Secretary Mellon, of the Treasury Department, has not gone to Europe on any government business, it was said officially today at the executive offices of the summer White House.

Answering in the negative questions as to whether Mr. Mellon might enter into foreign debt funding negotiations abroad, officials said in behalf of President Coolidge that the Secretary, as head of the Treasury Department, has no authority to conduct any such negotiations. Although he would possess such authority as chairman of the American debt funding commission, it was added, his powers in that respect have been largely exhausted under the law, except for two or three small items involving amounts owed by Greece and other nations whose obligations have not been funded.

The commission was entrusted with negotiating settlements of the foreign war-debt defaults. It was pointed out, and when it reported an agreement and this was accepted by Congress its authority in the matter ceased.

Mr. Mellon, it was added, merely has gone abroad to enjoy a vacation with his son, and to visit his daughter in Rome.

Mellon Enjoying Trip.

Tours, France, July 30 (By A. P.).—Andrew W. Mellon, American Secretary of the Treasury, left Tours today after passing two days in the Chateaux country. It was his first visit here since 1904, when he was accompanied by the late Henry C. Frick.

"I have enjoyed the trip very much," Mr. Mellon said, "and I feel that my vacation is benefitting me greatly. I have met with unflinching kindness and courtesy wherever I have gone."

The Secretary has seen no one officially and has no official engagements. He and his party will proceed to Rome and then to Switzerland.

No Loss of Life at Bimini. (By the Associated Press.)

Coast guard headquarters received a message last night from its Gulf division at Key West which said the naval tug Bay Spring, returning there yesterday afternoon from Bimini, reported there had been no loss of life on the island during the hurricane which swept the Bahamas.

The message said that on Bimini two churches and four schools had blown away, but that the people there appeared unconcerned and wanted no assistance.

NASSAU, STAGGERED BY HURRICANE LOSS, FEARS FOR VESSELS

Greatest Anxiety Is Felt for Sponge Fleet; 150 Are Believed Dead.

LIQUOR TRADE SUFFERS A TREMENDOUS BLOW

Capital of Bahamas Is Scene of Desolation; Wreckage
Throughout the City.

Nassau, New Providence Island, Bahamas, July 30 (By A. P.).—Ravaged by wind and wave with more than 150 persons missing, the Bahamas islands remained virtually isolated from communication with the outside world today while anxious residents took further count of the toll of destruction from the worst hurricane in the recorded history of the islands.

The majority of those missing are believed to have been drowned with the sponge fishing fleet which has not been seen since it set sail three days before the West Indian hurricane struck the islands Monday night.

Several weeks must elapse before the official toll of death and shipping and property damage is known. While conservative estimates place the damage at $8,000,000, reports have not been received from several islands of the group and communication with them may not be established for days.

Desolation in Capital.
Nassau, the beautiful capital of the Bahamas group, with a population of more than 12,000, presented a picture of desolation. Debris from the island's trees, wrecked houses and splintered boats washed up by the waves cluttered the stately driveways of the ancient city, where virtually all business has been suspended.

Abandoning efforts to repair the island's financial straits, Nassau turned first to search for the missing sponge fleet and to ascertain the conditions on other islands under its administration. The outer islands of the group are known to have suffered greatly, but inside the far-flung line of islands and banks toward the coast of Florida, the chief damage was at Nassau and the Isle of Gun Key, 40 miles from Miami.

Nothing was known of the fate of the government mail boat Brion, which proceeded for San Salvador shortly before the onrush of the storm. The Albertine Adou, with 40 persons aboard, called for the island of Inagua a few hours before the hurricane struck. It was also classed among the missing. The mail boat carried 20 persons.

Crews of the Munson steamship, Canadian Fisher from Kingston, Jamaica, which arrived at Nassau shortly after the storm abated, told of battling terrific winds and waves.

Blow to Liquor Trade.
The liquor trade, one of the chief sources of income of the islands, has been dealt a crushing blow and the probable loss of the sponge fleet will curtail for sometime the group's oldest and chief industry of sponge fishing. Attempts were being continued today to communicate with Miami radio stations, some repair having been done to the government wireless towers, whose thick steel ribs, were snapped by the hurricane.

Strawn into bits like shattered playthings by the temperamental hurricane, a mass of broken wreckage cluttered the water front from the eastern parade one of the several government promenades, far to the western edge of the island.

The Lizard was tossed broadside across the road on East Bay street, proving an obstruction to traffic. The old Ward liner Bulgaria, the coasting schooner Inflexible and the schooner Magic, all were lifted on the rocks, as were other ships and small fishing boats.

The sponging schooner Home Comfort, the two-master Mathoko, the schooner Eula M. and the schooner Vim were smashed to kindling wood.

M'DERMOTT IS SOUGHT IN MELLETT MYSTERY

Country-Wide Search Begun for Alleged Principal in Killing of Editor.

DESCRIPTION BROADCAST

Canton, Ohio, July 30 (By A. P.).—Shortly after Detective Ora Slater sent broadcast throughout the country today an appeal for the apprehension of Patrick Eugene McDermott, wanted in the investigation into the murder of Don R. Mellett, Mayor S. M. Swarts announced the appointment of Joseph Roach, noted Chicago criminal lawyer, as advisory counsel to Acting Chief Earl W. Hexamer.

McDermott, 28, an ex-convict and an alleged bootlegger and gunman, is the first man publicly marked by the investigators as one of those wanted for the murder of the Canton publisher.

He is wanted on evidence given to Slater by an unnamed informant now held in a jail near Alliance for protection.

The informer declares that he himself was chosen as another of the assassins, but that he refused. The investigators say that apprehension of McDermott is extremely vital to the investigation. Through him the identity of the slayers may be determined. He also may be the means of implicating the "higher ups" who sought to "get rid" of Mellett.

Appointment of Roach as advisory counsel to Hexamer was declared to be in no way a conflict with the operations of Slater, who is directly responsible to Prosecutor C. B. McClintock today and Mayor Swarts later took his appointment under consideration.

NORRIS NOW LIKELY AS NEW CHAIRMAN OF JUDICIARY BODY

Friends Believe Nebraskan Will Accept Post Left by Cummins' Death.

FERNALD NOW RANKS
ON COMMERCE GROUP

Lenroot Moves Into Second Place on Territories Committee.

(By the Associated Press.)

Senator Cummins, of Iowa, who died yesterday, was a member of three Senate committees—judiciary, of which he was chairman; interstate commerce, of which he formerly was head, and territories and insular possessions.

His death puts Senator Norris, of Nebraska, in line for the chairmanship of the judiciary committee, which has jurisdiction over prohibition legislation, among other subjects. Senator Borah, of Idaho, ranks Norris on the committee, but would be unlikely to succeed to the chairmanship because he already is head of the powerful foreign relations committee.

Norris, identified with the insurgent bloc, has been chairman of the agriculture committee, but he resigned that post on the final day of the last session, explaining that he desired to devote all his time to legislative research and duties which he could not carry on while chairman.

Friends of the Nebraska senator believe, however, that he would accept the judiciary committee chairmanship.

On the interstate commerce committee, which handles railroad legislation, the death of Senator Cummins makes Fernald, of Maine, the ranking Republican. Watson, of Indiana, is chairman.

On the territories and insular committee, of which Willis, of Ohio, is chairman, Senator Cummins was ranked by Johnson, of California, with Lenroot, of Wisconsin, just below the Iowa senator.

Few of Senator Cummins' colleagues are in Washington, but those still in the Capital expressed profound regret at his death. He was held in high esteem by both Democrats and Republicans.

News Saddens Coolidge; Tribute From Brookhart

Paul Smith's, N. Y., July 30. (By A. P.)—Word of the death of Senator Cummins, of Iowa, was received with expressions of sorrow at the summer White House.

President Coolidge was notified soon after he reached White Pine camp from the executive offices late in the day but made no formal comment.

Only a few minutes before word was received of the death, a telegram had been sent from the executive offices addressed to Mr. Cummins on an executive matter.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 30. (By A. P.)—"Most of my political life has been spent side by side with Senator Albert B. Cummins. Later disagreements did not wipe out memories of those days. Fifteen years his picture has hung in my office beside that of Abraham Lincoln."

This was the tribute paid to the veteran senator late today by Col. Smith W. Brookhart, who defeated Senator Cummins in the primary last June for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Baron Cleared in Duel Fatal to Prince Orloff

Vienna, July 30. (By A. P.)—Charges against Baron Klinger, growing out of the death of Prince Cyril Vladimir Orloff after a shooting affair over the affections of Baroness Klinger, were quashed today when the court returned no indictment.

Baron Klinger and Prince Orloff exchanged shots in a forest near the baron's castle at Raab early in June. The baron was wounded in the chest, while the charge from his hunting gun shattered the prince's right arm.

When the baroness, with whom the prince had become infatuated, learned of the shooting, she took her own life. The prince died two weeks later from pneumonia.

Boris and Giovanna Said to Be Betrothed

London, July 30. (By A. P.)—Reuter's Geneva correspondent says he learns from Sofia that the betrothal of King Boris of Bulgaria to Princess Giovanna, third daughter of the Italian sovereigns, is "considered an accomplished fact."

King Boris, the only bachelor sovereign in Europe, left Bulgaria early this month ostensibly for a holiday, but it was later intimated by Premier Llapcheff that he was seeking a bride.

Boris is at present in Switzerland. He is traveling incognito as "Count Raleki" and his movements have been largely kept secret.

SENATOR DIES AT DES MOINES

SENATOR ALBERT B. CUMMINS.

SENATOR CUMMINS IS DEAD; SUCCUMBS TO HEART ATTACK

appointed a successor to fill the unexpired term of Senator A. B. Cummins, he said when news of the senator's death reached him here tonight through a correspondent of the Associated Press.

Gov. Hammill issued the following statement:

"Senator Cummins has rendered distinguished service, not only to the State, but to the nation as well. He has been honest and fearless and independent in the conduct of every official duty. It was a great shock to me when informed by the Associated Press of his death."

Elected to Senate in 1908.

(By the Associated Press.)
Elected to the Senate in 1908 as one of the pioneers in the movement which swept so many insurgents into the United States Senate from the Midwest and Northwest, Albert Baird Cummins remained to become a regular of the regulars. He ascended to high place in the leadership of the Republican organization and served for more than five years as President pro tempore of the Senate.

An exponent of what was known as the "Iowa Idea" in tariff legislation, since translated into law in the flexible tariff, Mr. Cummins early found himself in violent disagreement with the Republican leaders on the fundamental principle of protection and joined with Deliber, Bristow, Clapp and Beveridge in the memorable Senate fight over the famous Payne-Aldrich tariff.

While thus placing himself in the forefront of the ranks of the Republican Progressives, as they were refined in those days, Senator Cummins allowed the Progressive movement to run ahead of him. As a result, some of the Progressive elements in his State opposed their former leader in his ambition to succeed himself in 1920, and the old guard leaders came to his rescue.

Main Work Rail Legislation.
Although the tariff furnished the vehicle in which Mr. Cummins first rode to nationwide attention, his real life work in the Senate was in the molding of railroad legislation. His first serious task in life had been in railroad construction, and while he turned later from that to the law, it always held his interest.

Early in his Senate service Mr. Cummins obtained a place on the interstate commerce committee, and as its chairman in 1919 he became a leading authority on the transportation act under which the railroads were returned to private operation after the war. Few pieces of legislation enacted by Congress in recent years have become the center of such controversy. The transportation act brought down on Senator Cummins the wrath of organized labor and was the chief factor in the wide opposition that developed to his re-nomination to the Senate in 1920.

Three years later it stood as the barrier to the consummation of his ambition to remain as chairman of the Senate after the removal of Calvin Coolidge from the Capitol to the White House. The Republican insurgents conducted a bitter fight against him and, finally, by joining with the Democrats, unseated him. A Democrat, Ellison D. Smith, of South Carolina, succeeded him although the Republicans controlled all the other standing committees.

Born in Pennsylvania.

Born February 15, 1850, near Carmichaels, Pa., Mr. Cummins was the son of Thomas and Sarah Cummins. His father was a carpenter. The son attended public school and later entered college at Waynesboro. Borrowing $50 from a banker uncle, he set out for the West and landed in Iowa. He obtained a place in the office of the editor of the Clayton county. Then worked as a carpenter and later got a job in the express office at MacGregor, Clayton county. A college friend offered him a job as assistant surveyor of Allen county, and with many misgivings, the young man soon began work as a railroad builder.

On the Cincinnati, Richmond & Fort Wayne road he did the job so well that he was called to a position with the Northern Central of Michigan, which he constructed. It was while engaged in this work that he met the young woman who later became Mrs. Cummins, then Miss Ida L. Gallery, of Eaton Rapids, Mich.

Takes Up Study of Law.

The work on the Michigan road attracted the attention of capitalists and he was offered a position by those who were building the Rio Grande. Cummins started for Denver, but while waiting for his train in Chicago a friend suggested that he remain and study law, which he did.

After being admitted to the bar in Chicago, he removed to Des Moines, where he worked his way to the front rapidly.

It was without his own consent that he broke into politics in 1887 when some Republicans bolted their party and named him as an independent candidate for the legislature. He was elected and served one term. Five years later when the leaders of the Republican party in Iowa set about to reclaim the State from Democratic rule, he was made the chairman of the State convention.

Soon afterward Mr. Cummins made his first fight for a place in the United States Senate, but was defeated by a narrow margin. He rallied to his support many young men, and the party divided into Cummins and anti-Cummins elements. In 1901, after a stormy campaign, he was elected governor, a place he held until his election to the Senate.

Senator Cummins in 1874 married Miss Gallery, to whom one daughter, Kate, was born. Mrs. Cummins died in February, 1919. Death cut short the long legislative career of Senator Cummins by more than nine months. His term would have expired next March 4 as a result of his defeat in the recent Iowa Republican primaries.

With the State seething with discontent over the failure of Congress to enact farm relief legislation along lines favored by corn belt agriculturists, he was opposed in the primaries by Smith W. Brookhart, a progressive, who entered the race after he had lost his seat in the Senate to Daniel F. Steck, Democrat, after a bitter contest and a close vote.

Senator Cummins, although regarded in later years as one of the conservative leaders in Congress and a supporter of Coolidge policies, came out for the Haugen-McNary price stabilization bill, which was opposed by the administration, but this failed to win him enough support from the farmers to overcome the voting strength mustered by Brookhart, and he went down to a crushing defeat.

Two, Trapped by Fire In Mine Tipple, Escape

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 30. (By A. P.)—The tipple of the Corona Coal Co. mine at Hepzibah, four miles from here, was destroyed by fire early tonight. Two miners were slightly affected by the smoke but made their way safely out of the workings.

First reports that an explosion had occurred in the night shift later proved to be without foundation.

I. C. C. DENOUNCES GOULD RAIL PLANS TO CROSS ROCKIES

Tragedy to Hundreds of Investors Has Followed Undertaking, Report Says.

$50,000,000 BURDEN
PUT ON RAILROAD

Denver & Rio Grande Losses
Now Prevented by Law,
It Is Declared.

(By the Associated Press.)

The boldness with which the late George Jay Gould attempted to bring into material being a dream of a transcontinental railroad and left in the wake of the effort a string of disconnected railroads, receiverships, worthless securities and tragedy to hundreds of investors was denounced in a report made public yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

It was based on an investigation instituted by the commission five years ago into the interrelated financial operations of the old and new Denver & Rio Grande Western railroads and the original and reorganized Western Pacific systems. All of them at one time or another in the early part of the twentieth century piled up on the financial rocks as similar to the stupendous undertaking to cross the great divide with another major railroad.

Scheme Sharply Criticized.

The Western Pacific was to have provided the Rocky Mountain-Pacific end of the transcontinental system but the action of Gould and others in saddling onto the Denver & Rio Grande the burden of financing the project with little concern as to whether the latter could bear it without impairment of its own facilities came in for sharp criticism in the commission's conclusions.

The insolencies and receiverships summarized were all traceable, the report said, to one source. "The assumption in 1905 by the Denver companies of obligations with respect to the Western Pacific and its securities which were beyond their abilities to fulfill. The enormous losses by stockholders and bondholders and the long period of impaired railroad service followed as the natural economic results of that one ill-advised undertaking."

No Personal Profit Seen.

Although the inquiry, it was added, disclosed no evidence that the insolencies of the Western Pacific and the New Denver were brought about for the personal profit of officials of those companies or the bankers involved, the responsibility for the "ill-advised commitment" of the New Denver, which resulted in its failure, was described as none the less on the officials of that company. All the activities of the men involved in the big financial undertaking, when bankers agreed to underwrite $50,000,000 of Western Pacific first mortgage bonds, subject to the Denver companies financially supporting the enterprise, could have been forestalled, the report asserted, had laws then in force.

New York Central's Plans Laid Before Commission

A realignment of relationships between various roads making up the New York Central system was laid before the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday for its approval.

The new arrangement would be based on a series of 99-year leases. The New York Central itself would lease the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis (Big Four); the Michigan Central, and the Chicago, Kalamazoo & Saginaw; while the Big Four in turn would lease the Cincinnati Northern and the Evansville, Indianapolis & Terre Haute. In each case the applicant for a lease already controls directly or indirectly the mileage involved.

Economies increased efficiency and improved service were promised in the applications, which contemplate a simplification of operating accounts and reduction of duplication.

Germans Imported Poison Rum, It Is Said

Toronto, Ont., July 30. (By A. P.)—A bootleg organization, importing poisonous liquor from Germany, was responsible for the deaths of eighteen persons in Ontario and a large number in New York State within the last few days, W. H. Price, acting attorney general of Ontario, said tonight. The liquor, he said, was landed in New York, and distributed from Buffalo into Ontario.

Max Wurtzman and Henry Goldstein were held without bail today on manslaughter charges growing out of the deaths of two Toronto men. Wurtzman and Goldstein were indicted yesterday at Jamestown, N. Y.

NORFOLK RAIDERS ARREST 35 IN WAR ON DRUG VENDORS

Force of 172 Officers Sweeps Through City in Simultaneous Attacks.

BASEBALL SPECTATORS
SEIZED; GAME HALTED

Several Women Among Prisoners; 18 Other Arrests
Are Expected.

(By the Associated Press.)

Norfolk, Va., July 30. (By A. P.)—Armed with more than 50 warrants, a combined force of 125 city policemen and 47 Federal agents, led by Col. L. G. Nutt, chief of the narcotics division of the Treasury Department, late this afternoon swept through Norfolk in what is declared to be the largest simultaneous narcotics raid in the history of the Washington division.

Tonight, less than four hours after the raid had started, 35 persons already had been arrested, taken before a Federal commissioner, arraigned and their bonds, totaling more than $22,000, so set. At least eighteen other persons were being sought. The bonds of those given a hearing ranged from $1,000 to $20,000, depending upon the seriousness of the charge. None of those arrested had succeeded in meeting the requirements, and all were in jail.

Those arrested included five druggists, with two more being sought; a dozen or more white men, long suspected as drug vendors, and a number of negroes, as well as several women.

Officers Worked for Months.

Information on which the arrests were made was worked up over a period of two months by a group of Federal agents and picked city police, in charge of H. W. Chabers, assigned to Norfolk. During that time, it is claimed, the officers purchased more than 75,000 grains of cocaine at an outlay of more than $6,000. Then plans were made for the wholesale raid. Experienced narcotics agents were brought here from other points in Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and North Carolina.

Plans of the raiders had been laid with the deepest secrecy, and from the time the forces were assembled at police headquarters until the work was practically completed, all telephone communication between headquarters and the outside was guarded to prevent a possible leak.

Scattered to All Sections.

A few minutes before 4 o'clock the 152 raiders piled into 37 taxicabs and 15 private automobiles and scattered to all sections of the city, dashing from one point to another in search of those for whom the warrants already had been drawn. One of the first places visited was the Virginia league baseball park, where five persons were taken.

The officers scattered through the crowd and began picking out the objects of their search. The game had to be halted because of the confusion.

In addition to Col. Nutt, those aiding in the raids were Dr. B. R. Rhees, narcotics agent in charge of the Washington division; O. A. H. Delgard, agent in charge of the Philadelphia division, and Chief of Police S. W. Ironmonger, of Norfolk.

An unusually dramatic touch was given to the raids by the appearance at the preliminary hearings before Commissioner Harry Brinkley of the undercover agents wearing masks to prevent their identity becoming known to the underworld denizens.

MRS. HALL IS FREED ON BAIL OF $15,000

Under the question of indicting Mrs. Hall.

"The case will be presented in the regular way to the September grand jury, which convenes on the third Tuesday in September," he asserted, adding that it would not be the first to come up at that time.

A number of witnesses were interviewed, but I can not reveal their identity.

"I have received no notice of the appointment of a special prosecutor, but I would not be surprised if such an appointment were made. In fact, I am quite sure that it will be made."

Mrs. Hall was driven direct to her New Brunswick residence over a road which runs within a short distance of the field in which the bodies of her husband and Mrs. Mills were found. She was chatting gayly with those who accompanied her.

When the car drew up to the Hall residence one photographer ran up an embankment on the lawn to set off a flashlight as Mrs. Hall walked toward the house. After she had been lifting Mrs. Hall's bag out of the car, swung it on the photographer, damaging his camera and hitting the man on the shoulder. The Hall party then ran into the house and slammed the door.

Former Trooper Bought.

Trenton, N. J., July 30. (By A. P.)—It was learned here today that a warrant is out for the arrest of former State Trooper Henry Dickman, lone hand investigator assigned to continue the Hall-Mills probe after all other troopers had been recalled from the case in October, 1922.

Dickman is wanted on a bad check charge involving Jersey City bank, and on suspicion that he has knowledge of who killed the Rev. Dr. Edward E. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor S. Mills. The search that has been going on for him ever since, he disappeared in June, 1923, is now under way with fresh vigor.

Dickman left behind him three months' pay due him from the constabulary, and nearly $100 in expense money payable to him. For several months before he disappeared reports came to State police headquarters here that he had large sums of money and took trips to Canada and other distant points. The State police believe Dickman learned the identity of the slayer or slayers, and was bought off with a large sum.

Two in Plane Hurt In Fall Into River

Hampton, Va., July 30. (By A. P.)—Lieut. George J. Bortle, Jr., and Lieut. F. E. Handy, of the Pennsylvania national guard, were seriously injured today when a JN airplane piloted by Bortle went into a tall spin over Back river and crashed into the river.

They were rescued by V. G. Page, H. A. Ward and C. T. Quinn, all of Messicks, and hurried to Langley field for treatment. Later they were taken to the General Hospital at Fort Monroe.

The machine, engaged in maneuvers, was flying low. The cause of the accident is not known. Lieut. Bortle lives in Philadelphia and Lieut. Handy at Rosslyn, Va.

EMBARGO ON ARMS NOT TO BE LIFTED. COOLIDGE DECIDES

Mexican Government Alone
Permitted to Purchase Munitions in U. S.

FEARS RAISING THE LID
MAY AID REVOLUTION

Administration Policy in the Religious Dispute to Be "Hands-Off."

Special to The Washington Post.
Paul Smiths, N. Y., July 30.—
With the Calles government and the Catholic Church locked in a desperate struggle begun by the expulsion of the foreign clergy, the Coolidge administration is watching the situation in Mexico with the gravest concern.

In response to an inquiry today President Coolidge declared that he had decided not to lift the embargo on the exportation of arms from the United States to persons in Mexico other than the authorities of the Mexican government and that it would not be lifted for some time to come.

In this way the President manifested his determination to take no step that might produce another revolution in Mexico. He realizes that Mexico has become a powder magazine and he is taking precautions that no match shall be tossed into it from the American side of the border.

To lift the arms embargo would enable the groups now opposing the Mexican government to obtain arms and ammunition from the United States.

Imposed by Coolidge.
The present arms embargo was imposed by executive order of President Coolidge in 1924 to aid in the stabilization of the Obregon government. Before the lid on arms exportation was clamped down the De la Huerta revolution had been making considerable headway. The followers of De la Huerta were getting all the arms from the United States they could pay for and apparently they were well financed. The moment the supply was shut off by the embargo the De la Huerta revolution went to pieces.

The embargo was imposed upon recommendation by Secretary of State Hughes under an act of Congress passed during the Wilson administration, authorizing the adoption of such means of discouraging revolutions in American republics.
When such an embargo is imposed shipments of arms to private individuals are forbidden, but duly constituted governments, recognized by the United States, can continue to obtain arms without limitation. As the Hughes Mexican policy was founded on stabilization of the Obregon government which had been recognized in 1923, the administration yielded to appeals from the Mexican government for the imposition of the embargo to aid in stamping out the De la Huerta revolution.

Keeping Hands Off.
The administration policy in regard to the religious controversy in Mexico was determined several months ago by President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg. It was to keep hands off generally and to intervene only for the protection of Americans in individual instances from unwarranted aggression.

There was no ground for protest,
the administration decided, against the Mexican government policy of expelling foreign clergymen and foreign parochial school teachers. This policy was founded on a provision of the Mexican constitution. First the foreign Protestant clergy and teachers, including some Americans, were driven out. Then came the turn of the foreign Catholic clergy and teachers, including some Americans. First the Protestant churches in the United States and then the American Catholic hierarchy appealed to Washington to intervene to halt the consummation of the Mexican exclusion policy, but Washington steadfastly refused to take any steps in that direction, explaining that it is none of our business.
We would have no ground for protest,
it was made clear, if Mexico were to order the expulsion of all persons with red hair.

It was indicated, however, that if any Americans expelled suffered bodily harm or were deprived of property in contravention of treaty agreements there would be ground for action by the American government. Action of this character was taken in some individual cases.

Pope Will Not Interdict Mexico Unless Necessary

Rome, July 30 (By A. P.).—
From the highest authority it is learned that Pope Pius does not desire to impose an official interdict
in Mexico, unless this measure—which has not been used for almost three centuries—is absolutely necessary.

It is pointed out that the present condition in that country, superficially resembling an interdict, through the absence of the celebration of masses and other religious functions, is not the result of action either by the holy see or the Mexican episcopacy, but is a reaction to the conditions imposed by the Mexican government, rendering normal religious functions impossible. While the pontiff is deliberating on the steps to be taken, the vatican is being inundated with a flood of messages from all parts of the world, particularly Spain and the Latin-American republics, entreat-ingly commending his attitude and urging stronger measures.

On the other hand there is a strong current among the cardinals here in favor of mild action, they feeling that the situation may be solved without resorting to a measure the consequences of which perhaps may be too permanent and widesweeping.

CATHOLIC LEADER IN MEXICO; SCENES ABOUT CHURCHES

remained for a while, then forced their way out by discharging their pistols in the air and using whips and canes upon the attacking party.
At this moment the firemen arrived and turned the hose upon the people, causing them to flee.

The officials closed and sealed the annexes before they departed. No one is reported to have been injured.

Firemen with hose also dispersed
a crowd which had gathered and was evincing anger at policemen who were detaining two women disguised as priests to carry away a picture of a saint from a Catholic church in one of the slum sections of the city. The crowd threw stones and various missiles at firemen who were called upon to drive them away. The powerful streams of water from the hose of the firemen scored a quick victory.

The firemen dashed from one end of the city to another tonight in response to reports of trouble. In several instances they played the hose upon crowds which were in combat with the police, flooding them and thus bringing about their dispersal.

Troops Called Out.

Agents of the department of justice late today began closing and sealing church structures.
Numerous churches at the same time suspended their services of their own accord. To enable priests to complete their inventories and otherwise prepare for their departure tomorrow.

Detachments of federal troops have been ordered to patrol the streets and roads in the villages and open country of the federal district, ready to give assistance to the municipal authorities in the towns and villages if disturbances arise over the religious situation.
The troops traveling in motorcycles and automobiles have instructions to shoot any one offering resistance.

These steps have been taken because of reports of intense excitement in the suburbs and outlying villages, especially among the Indians.

Just before darkness settled over the city, a cordon of police was thrown around the cathedral. The police, stationed a few feet apart, preventing any one approaching.
The cathedral itself was deserted,
no one was in the courtyard except a few soldiers guarding the doors.
The police within the city have been strongly reinforced and ordered to keep utmost vigilance.
Military guards about public buildings have been tripled, and federal troops throughout the country are under arms awaiting orders.

Walk With Bleeding Feet.

Barefoot men, women and children trudged over the rough, sun-baked road to Guadalupe today by thousands. Often their feet were bleeding. Numbers of gently nurtured women, unaccustomed to the hardships of life, tramped under the broiling sun, saying their beads and brushing shoulders with sturdy Indian women, hurred to the elements and hardship.

From every part of Mexico came similar stories of barefoot processions to favorite shrines or local churches as a special demonstration of grief on the last day of the priestly services, for no one knows how long. The number of priests and the capacity of the churches were inadequate; many thousands waited in vain for the priestly offices. Often there was a heartbroken sob as realization came of inability to secure baptism, confirmation or the marriage service.

In a statement to the Associated Press Mr. Crespi said:
"I have not taken participation whatever in the present religious conflict, which has been handled solely by the Mexican archbishops and bishops. My attitude has been absolutely neutral in all Mexican local affairs and the authorities are acquainted with that fact."

"But I am the representative of a power which has publicly announced its support of the Mexican episcopate's attitude and my presence is not desired. Let God's will be done."

Critical Phase Reached.

The dramatic struggle between the Catholic Church and the Mexican government enters its crucial phase tomorrow when the new government religious regulations, providing for the enforcement of the constitution of 1917, go into effect.

President Calles and his government have at their command the military, administrative and judicial power of Mexico and the support of the Confederation of Labor. The church has called into use what has been described as a "partial interdict," a dread measure to the faithful, and is supported by the National League for Defense of Religious Liberty.

The government's stand is that the church and the state must be kept separated and that the church must stay out of politics. The church's stand is that it is being persecuted by a hostile government which is threatening religious freedom and that it has not meddled in politics.

So far-reaching are the issues in controversy that Pope Pius has appealed to the faithful throughout the world to raise their voices in prayer for their Mexican co-religionists, and will offer his own prayers for his Mexican flock.

Government Regulations.

The government regulations in brief are as follows:

No foreign minister of any religion may function in Mexico;
church ownership of property is for-bidden and all such property reverts to the state; religious instruction in schools is forbidden; religious orders, such as convents and monasteries, are forbidden; priests and ministers are forbidden to participate in politics, or to hold political meetings; to criticize the government, or to incite others to do so; outdoor religious ceremonials and the wearing by priests of their religious garb outside of their churches or residences are forbidden; periodicals of religious nature are forbidden to comment upon the government's acts or to print news concerning the actions of the government.

Punishments may range from a fine of 500 pesos, or fifteen days imprisonment, or both, up to six years imprisonment, or "additional punishment" as the court may care to impose.

Trial by jury in these cases is not permitted.

Enforcement of these constitutional provisions, which date back to the constitution of 1857, has met with determined opposition by the church. Archbishop Mora y del Rio has issued an order to all priests not to perform their offices after midnight tonight, when the regulations go into effect. The League for Defense of Religious Liberty has issued an appeal for an "economic boycott" to register its protests against the government's attitude.

Catholics Here to Pray For Church in Mexico

Catholics of Washington are asked to pray fervently tomorrow for the Catholics in Mexico, in an official letter sent to the Washington clergy by order of Archbishop Michael J. Curley.

The letter, which is signed by the Rev. William E. Mackessy, follows:

"You are respectfully asked to say the litany of the sacred heart and to recite the act of the consecration to the sacred heart
after all the masses on Sunday, August 1, in compliance with the request of the holy father that all the Catholics of the world join with him that day in offering prayers for the suffering church in Mexico.

"You are also asked to urge the faithful to join fervently in the prayers and to receive holy communion that day, that the persecution of the Mexican Catholics may speedily cease."

comes through the church organization recognizing the right of the church first to registration and the delivery of such registrations to the civil authorities by the proper supervising church authorities. Such a plan, according to the archbishop, should be satisfactory to both parties, as it would secure the civil registration demanded by the government and preserve the church's traditional customs of organization and registration.

The archbishop excused himself from making a signed statement which might, however well-intentioned, be taken as an attempt to create sentiment abroad against the government, which is far from his intention.

He was greatly touched by the strong sympathy for the Mexican Catholics from all parts of the world, and especially from the United States. The archbishop said that the press printed a sensational statement that the Vatican was displeased with the action of the Catholics in closing the churches.
This is a mistake, he said, as every movement taken by the Mexican church has been known beforehand and approved by the Pope in general, leaving the plans for development to the Mexican Catholics themselves.

Proclaims His Patriotism.

Archbishop Mora y del Rio said that the danger of arrest and fine hanging over his head and over the bishops for signing the episcopal pastoral letter disincensed him toward making a move or issuing statements which might be construed as unpatriotic, which, he declared, the Mexican Catholics are not.

The church leader showed in his face and frail figure the strain of the strenuous days through which he has been passing for two months and especially in the last week. He is still the gentle old man who has been so popular among the Mexican Catholics for a quarter of a century. His home on Argentina street is unadorned and almost severe in its simplicity. People come and go freely from the highest in society to poor Indians, unhindered and unmolested. All are welcomed and the frail old man who is the head of the Mexican catholicism receives them as the ancient patri-archs received and treated their immediate families.

To the question, "How is the present church trouble coming out?" the archbishop replied, "The issue is in God's hands."

Inquiry elicited a statement from the girl that she intended after today to eat only barely sufficient beans and bread to sustain her life until the religious question is settled.

She declared that all her relatives and acquaintances intended to carry out a similar program.

growth of the religious situation,
the dispatches said.

New York, July 30 (By A. P.).—
Thomas J. McManus, known as "The" McManus, former State Sen-

home in West Forty-ninth street.
He was 84 years old and was one of the most picturesque of the old-time leaders of Tammany Hall.
High blood pressure was the cause of death.

The West Side was thrown into mourning when the news of his death spread. He was often called "the most humane politician in New York."

Committee on Arms To Resume Sessions

Geneva, July 30 (By A. P.).—
The military, naval and air subcommittees of the preparatory commission for disarmament, which adjourned on July 6, will meet again on August 2. The American delegates will be present.

A Musical Education Now Within Your Reach.

Would you like to learn to play the piano? Have you children whom you would like to educate musically?

We have evolved a wonderful plan, whereby nearly every one may become an accomplished pianist.

We will place in a limited number of Washington homes on the first floor, absolutely free, a piano which may be used three months without charge. All we ask in return is that you engage a competent music teacher and study.

You may have your choice of many reliable pianos, taken in exchange on Knabe Grands and Ampico-Reinacting Pianos. Some of these have been used very little—all are in good condition.

Keep the piano for three months without charge—and if, at the end of that time you desire to purchase it, pay us
the small sum of $5 a month and the instrument will soon be yours. If you wish to return it, we will call without obligation to you.

A year or so ago, you may recall that we enrolled 200 children in our "Melody May" course. Of that number, but one was found without some degree of musical talent. It is evident, therefore, that this new offer of ours will uncover a still larger number of students who possess real ability.

Come in—let's talk it over.
We will be pleased to deliver
one of these pianos now.

IOWA DEMOCRATS.

Iowa Democrats promise, if given the power, to help the farmers by means of a "tariff reform"—that is, a reduction or destruction of tariff duties all along the line—beginning with the import duties on farm products and ending with all manufactured commodities now protected from unfair foreign competition.

If, as the Democrats of Iowa say, the present import duties on farm products are ineffective, obviously it follows that they should be repealed. Will the farmers of Iowa agree to this? It is what they must expect if they endorse the Democratic program.

In Iowa there are approximately 80,000 persons employed in manufacturing establishments of various sorts. Most of the articles come in competition with similar foreign articles made by foreign labor. Among the articles manufactured in Iowa might be mentioned: Brick and tile, butter, cheese, condensed milk, buttons, clothing, copper and sheet-iron products, machine-shop products, furniture, leather goods, lumber, marble and stone work, tobacco manufactures—all of which come in competition with similar foreign-made goods. Annual wages amount to more than $96,000,000 in Iowa. At present there is an import protective duty on all these commodities. The Democrats would destroy this protection if in power.

Iowa farmers sell a large portion of their products to the 80,000 Iowans employed in Iowa industrial institutions. "Tariff reform" will mean a cutting down of 50 per cent of the employees and wages paid.

Will such a program bring relief to the farmers of Iowa?

Perhaps the American girl is becoming taller. She's reaching for a lot more than she used to.

COLLEGE RADICALISM.

According to recent advices from Germany, propagandists of the third internationale in Leningrad are planning to build intellectual communist groups in all the large universities of the world, with the intention of utilizing them to sow seeds of radicalism among other students. As the information reaches Berlin, funds will be provided poor students in the form of subsistence, thereby making them grateful and dependent. The individuals will be encouraged to enter student activities, particularly those having to do with college newspapers. The groups will cry out against capitalist professors and teachings, and collect and disseminate information.

In this country the scheme would be entirely feasible were it not for the students themselves. Fundamentally the American student is a conformist. He wears the same style clothes as his brother. He joins the same societies; he smokes a pipe one year, and the next year, as a group, abandons it in favor of a cigarette; he speaks the same language, and he thinks the same thoughts. The reactionary, or the radical, is set apart from his fellows. He is frowned upon and laughed at. Finally, in self-defense, his own group is formed, and happily he expounds his philosophy and bows down before his dogma in a manner which can do harm to none save himself. It is true that many changes have come over American institutions of learning in the last ten years. Surely the college is not, however, the fertile field for propagation of radicalism which many alarmists would have us believe.

Every town has at least one man who is good at an argument and nothing else.

MAKING PRISONS PRODUCTIVE.

It was through the efforts of the late Luther C. White, superintendent of Federal prisons, that Congress was prevailed upon to authorize the manufacture of some of the articles needed by various government departments by inmates of those institutions. That the employment of Federal convicts in productive operations is alike beneficial to the government and the convicts requires no demonstration. Many of these unfortunate find, upon their release, that the trades they have learned under instructions received during their incarceration enable them to obtain honest employment and regain their standing among their fellows.

Superintendent White, prior to his death a few weeks ago, had so organized the various industries of the institutions under his jurisdiction that the products turned out have been brought to a high state of perfection. The Atlanta penitentiary, particularly, produces cotton fabrics which meet the exacting specifications of the government completely. A recent memorandum from the Department of Justice conclusively proves this. The principal product of this prison is canvas duck of which the quartermaster's department of the army ordered 8,000 yards last week. The Treasury Department also placed an order for 12,000 yards of the same material for the coast guard, and a like amount will be used by the forestry division of the Agricultural Department in fighting forest fires in Montana.

Another order received by the superintendent is for 8,000 yards of canvas for the Interior Department which will be used by the Indian schools under the jurisdiction of the bureau of Indian affairs. The government of Porto Rico is also in the market for a supply of canvas from the Atlanta institution. These orders give increasing opportunities, says the Department of Justice, for useful employment to the prison inmates.

Style is that vague something a woman has that makes her garments seem to have it.

THE PLAZA AND THE ARTHUR SCHOOL.

At least a year must elapse before any great progress toward the completion of the plaza between the Capitol and the Union station can be made. As soon as the Department of Justice approves the title to the property purchased from the Baltimore and Ohio Company work will begin upon the demolition of the buildings on that site. There are a number of dilapidated old residences on the square diagonally opposite the Senate office building, all of which are to come down at once.

Congress has not yet made the necessary appropriation to enable Architect Lynn of the Capitol to start the landscape improvements contemplated, and this fact will serve to prevent the demolition of the Arthur school for another year, perhaps for a longer period. That small school located in Arthur place is unique among the educational institutions of the District of Columbia. It is the one school in which the children are nearly all of foreign parentage. The majority of the parents of these pupils are Italians by birth. There are, however, a few Chinese and a percentage of Greeks among them.

When the building is wrecked to make way for the contemplated changes in the landscape these children will be scattered through other nearby schoolhouses. Commissioner Rudolph is understood to be of the opinion that this will be advantageous, in that it will give these youngsters a better opportunity to mix with the "natives" and thereby be more likely to instill in their minds better ideas of what this country and its government means for them. But some who have come in constant contact with the pupils of this particular school think, perhaps, the mixing may be more advantageous to "the Americans," for they assert there are no youngsters in any other school in the District who seem so anxious to absorb knowledge as is evinced by the polyglot student body of the institution on Arthur place.

If there were men in those days, dinosaur eggs doubtless served nobly in criticism of ham actors.

POOLS AND SKATING RINKS.

The announcement of Maj. Carey H. Brown, engineer of the National Capital park and planning commission, that Washington not only will have a city-wide system of bathing pools, but also will have a number of ice skating rinks in winter weather, if present plans materialize, has gladdened the hearts of many young and old emulators of Hans Brinker, the poor little Dutch boy of fiction, whose prowess won for him at the annual Amsterdam races the coveted trophy, a pair of silver skates.

Ice skating is both a healthful and beautiful sport. In the past its devotees in Washington have not had much opportunity to display their skill because of the comparatively few cold spells of sufficient intensity to freeze solidly the larger bodies of water. Shallow pools, however, not only will freeze over more quickly but the danger of skating on thin ice will be materially lessened. From the standpoint of the spectator the picture of a frozen body of water, singing in rhythm to the graceful strokes of the runners and mirroring the many colored garments of the skaters, is an inspiring sight. The participant in the sport is brought outdoors in sparkling, cold weather, when the natural tendency, if suitable skating surfaces are not available, is to remain indoors.

All Washington desires the rinks, and hopes that Maj. Brown's plans will materialize. Possibly, then, the ice carnival of last winter, completed only after many postponements because of lack of suitable ice, can be made a regular function, and Washington's own Hans Brinker can race for the silver skates.

Why shouldn't girls get their rosy complexions at a drug store? Men did that years ago in dry States.

WHY OUR SHIPPING DECLINED.

According to the revised list of commercial treaties or conventions (for they are not really treaties but commercial agreements), there are 78 such agreements in force now between the United States and foreign countries. These agreements date back to the close of the revolutionary war when a convention of amity and commerce was made between the United States and Great Britain.

Until the treaty, or convention, of 1815 between the United States and Great Britain, at the close of the war of 1812, the United States reserved the right to impose discriminating duties on goods brought into this country in American vessels—a plan long adopted by Great Britain but abandoned for a policy of "freedom of the seas," or "reciprocity on the ocean."

In the convention of 1815 the United States was induced to include this doctrine and abandon that of discrimination in favor of American vessels. The United States agreed to impose no greater duty or charge on goods brought into the United States in British vessels than were imposed on goods brought in American vessels. This was an application of what is known as "the most favored nation clause." It was the beginning of the decline of American shipping in the ocean-carrying trade.

This "most favored nation clause" has been in practically all of the commercial conventions between the United States and foreign countries. It is what has stopped the enforcement of certain sections of all tariff laws until 1922 permitting a discriminating duty in favor of American vessels.

In the merchant marine act of 1920 there was a provision directing the President to notify all countries with which the United States has commercial treaties or conventions prohibiting discriminating duties in favor of American vessels, that so much of the treaties as prohibited this discrimination would be abrogated. But this part of the 1920 merchant marine act never has been enforced. A policy of discriminating duties never can be restored until such provisions in treaties or conventions prohibiting them are abrogated.

When the postwar treaty with Germany was before the Senate foreign affairs committee it contained this same "most favored nation clause." The committee struck it out and provided for a return to discriminating duties if Congress saw fit.

The one great trouble with the American merchant marine is that it is placed on a free trade or competitive basis with all other countries. If the doctrine of protection pertained to the ocean trade as it does to the coastwise trade, there might be an American merchant marine flying the American flag on all the ocean routes.

Commercial treaties or conventions are unfortunately based on Great Britain's policy of "reciprocity" or "free trade" on the high seas.

When night falls, nothing is broken except laws.

ALBERT BAIRD CUMMINS.

Senator Albert Baird Cummins, whose death occurred yesterday afternoon at his home in Des Moines, Iowa, entered political life as the exponent of the "Iowa idea," the doctrine which gave birth to the progressive wing of the Republican party; he was defeated for renomination only a few weeks ago through the efforts of the political organization he had helped to create, and died a conservative. For more than a quarter of a century he has been a prominent figure in the public life of the country, and has been honored by his State with all the offices within the power of the people to bestow. Notwithstanding his recent defeat he will live in history as one of the great men of his State. Both as governor and as United States senator he has been successful in molding his personal views into legislative enactments.

Familiar with the physical side of the railroad question by reason of his early training in railway construction, when elected governor of Iowa, Mr. Cummins forced through the legislature various reforms in connection with these transportation companies, and championed the side of the public in demanding and obtaining reduced rates for freight and passengers. His career as governor was more or less stormy and in this period he vigorously opposed those who later welcomed him into their inner councils.

In 1908 he was elected to the Senate to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William B. Allison, and came to Washington heralded as the pioneer in that progressive movement which eventually brought into the Senate men who became the insurgents of the present day. But time mellowed the views of the former governor. Gradually he turned aside from his radicalism and became a full-fledged member of the regulars. This stirred up revolt at home, resulting in a back-fire which, in the end, he was unable to withstand. As chairman of the interstate commerce committee for years, he was responsible for much of the railway legislation that has stood the test of the years. He was co-author of the transportation act, under which the railroads, after the war period, were turned back to private ownership. His activity in this matter brought down upon him the wrath of organized labor and elements within the progressive wing of his party, but Senator Cummins believed this legislation was wise and never failed to come to its defense when attacked.

The fight against him became so bitter that when he endeavored to hold both this chairmanship and the presidency pro tempore of the Senate, when Mr. Coolidge went into the White House, the Progressives joined with the Democrats and elected a minority senator chairman of the committee. Mr. Cummins then was made chairman of the judiciary committee and held this important post at the time of his death.

Senator Cummins has served his country well. During his later years he was the author of much constructive legislation. The bitterness of the recent campaign in Iowa can not dim the memory of his work and his death will be deplored by men of all shades of opinion. It is to be regretted that he could not live to complete his memoirs, a task he had set for himself and upon which he had entered.

A prominent New York banker is quoted, in an interview in Montreal, as saying that "tariff barriers are the principal deterrent to the world's return to a friendly international status." If this banker, and any other American banker, will examine his books and statements, he will find that in all probability 90 per cent, perhaps more, of his business is derived from domestic business; and that business results from industrial prosperity. If foreign industry is permitted to enter the American field on a free trade basis or even a friendly competitive basis, how long could this American banker, or any other American banker, expect to obtain such large business from his American customers? A gain of say 5 per cent in foreign banking business would be followed by a loss of 50 per cent in domestic business. The American tariff benefits even bankers.

Early to bed and early to rise, and you dodge most of the expensive temptations.

The Worst Story I Heard Today—By Will Rogers

The Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by William May Garland, from all over the world and Los Angeles, Calif. I run on to him over here in Paris, at a Luncheon of the American Club. They have a kind of a Lion's or Eagle's cold potato eating Club just like Fort Wayne or one of those would have. Bill Garland is the man that came over here a few years ago and produced the Olympic Games for Los Angeles. I think it is 1933. Well, it seemed kinder funny at the time but I don't find the thing isn't creeping up on us and it will be here before you know it. Bill has also got some dandy events landed for us along in the 50's.

Philadelphia landed this Sequelcentennial but Bill has the next one booked for Los Angeles in 2076. Being a Sportsman he naturally had to unload a Golf story he had just heard in England: One of the Parishioners was playing with his Clergyman, and the Preacher had played a pretty tough round, so the paying guest of the church tried to cheer him up. "Oh, it's all right. You will beat me some day." "No," says the Clergyman, "I never will be able to do that." "Why, sure you will. You will at least win at the finish. You will be burying me some day." "But even then, it will be your Hole," says the pessimistic Clergyman.

PRESS COMMENT.

Maying Both Ends.

Louisville Courier-Journal: In Illinois politics Mr. Insull seems to be playing both ends, but not against the middle. If there is a middle, he is probably willing to play that also.

Woman's Triumph.

Atchison Daily Globe: A woman's hour of triumph is when she finds the electric light burning in the cellar, just after her husband has preached a sermon on economy.

The Best Solution.

Jacksonville Times-Union: Chicago bandits the other day killed three of their own clan in the suburbs of that city. Perhaps that's the best solution of the bandit situation in that city.

Chimpanzee Blood.

Boston Transcript: One of the scientists says the blood of the chimpanzee resembles that of human beings. Now look for effort to have all reference to the chimpanzee eliminated from the school text books.

Tampering With Juries.

New York Herald Tribune: There is far less tampering with juries in this country than people who lose lawsuits are prone to imagine. Most citizens discharge jury duty impartially and according to their best judgment. It is no longer necessary to appoint many men to a tribunal of justice "in order to make bribery expensive," as was done in ancient Greece. The application "twelve good men and true" is, as a rule, accurately bestowed.

Must Not Chew Gum.

Minneapolis Journal: An Italian paper tells of hatred in Europe for traveling Americans. Any American who goes over with money enough to pay his way, who treats people courteously and does not chew gum in public will meet with no great hostility.

Kansas Relatively Tame.

Boston Herald: It used to be "What's the matter with Kansas?" Iowa, Wisconsin, North Dakota and others make Kansas seem the embodiment of conservatism.

Congress' Radio Problem.

New York World: The point is well made that the wave lengths are public property which should not be made to serve purely private ends. The problem with which Congress has yet to deal is that of preventing such abuses on the one hand and avoiding the evils of censorship and related form of bureaucracy on the other.

Carried Unanimously.

Bridgeport Star: We shan't take sides in Poland until one side comes out heart and soul for simplified spelling.

"In Spite of All."

Utica Press: News from France of the growing resentment there against Americans who are blamed for the French financial difficulties makes a strange contrast with the news received eight years ago this week. Then the allied soldiers were beginning the great offensive which ended the war. The turn came when American troops won at Chateau-Thierry. The trouble is and has been that the public men of France have, for the most part, failed since the armistice to tell their fellow countrymen the truth. So they have floundered deeper and deeper into a financial slough. The United States is probably no more to blame for the present predicament than it was for

Humanizing Knowledge

By GLENN FRANK

THERE has just begun to come from the press a series of little books called "The Humanizing of Knowledge Series."

James Harvey Robinson is the editor of the series.

The purpose of the series is primarily "to give in vital form for daily use the discoveries and conclusions of men great in their respective fields, which might otherwise be veiled in scientific language for years."

I hope the series will live up to the street parade.

I hope the books will carry out the promise of the blurb.

At any rate, before seeing the books, I hail the scheme as a happy answer to the plea I have been making on the platform and in the press for the last six years that we need to have done for modern knowledge something similar to what Denis Diderot and the Encyclopedists did for knowledge in the eighteenth century.

Diderot and his associates tried to make the results of scholarship readable for the man in the street, pulling together the results of learning that men might use them in the regulation of life.

I hope that under Mr. Robinson's able and human guidance a group of men will go, with conscientious care, through the findings of modern biology, psychology, anthropology, experimental ethics, genetics, economics, sociology, chemistry, physics, through the findings of all the natural and social sciences, pulling out, tabulating, and translating into easily understandable language the net contribution that each of these adventures of the modern mind has made to the wiser management of modern life.

This would give us an inventory of the raw materials of renewals which are ready to hand to be used by us in building a saner and sounder social order.

The building of family life.

The practice of politics.

The management of business and industry.

The organization of international affairs.

The injection of living prophecy into the sullen snarlings of religious controversy.

The development of educational policy and procedure.

All these need to be governed more by intelligence and less by impulse; but before that happy achievement will be possible we must locate and come to an understanding of the new ideas, the new ideals, and the new spiritual values that have been thrown up as by-products of the sciences, philosophies and practical experimentations of the modern mind.

All these raw materials of renewal are lying about us today, in confusion and challenge, waiting only for adequate leadership to bring them together and to touch them into life.

If Mr. Robinson succeeds in making a decently comprehensive inventory of the living results of modern investigation, translating scholarship into English, he will at least be the John the Baptist of such leadership.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Titian Girls—White Horses.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Since the taxi superseded the "gong" going back" on our streets it is unusual to see any sort of horse-drawn vehicle. Horses have become almost as scarce as shad in the Potomac, and a white horse is not seen more frequently than once a fortnight at the outside. In the files of The Post of 25 years ago can be found many stories of the relationship between the equine of white hue and aurn, or red, headed girls. During the Cleveland and Harrison administrations when the family of "Orpheus C. Kerr" sat in droves under the big elm tree in front of the Old Willard corner, many "rounds" were purchased in a special lot toward the victim who was willing to wager that the passage of a red-headed girl would not be immediately followed by the appearance across the street of a carriage or wagon drawn by a white horse.

Of late years, however, the relationship between the ladies with titian-tinted locks and the horse with white hair seems to have become extinct, as it were. Nevertheless this morning as I glanced at The Post's bulletin board I was startled by the apparition which met my eyes after having absorbed the record of events on that bulletin. A beautiful creature with hair so red as to almost dim the brightness of Old Sol himself passed along the sidewalk. Instinctively I looked toward the fourteenth street and, behold, there was an old-fashioned buggy driven by an old lady with hair as white as milk and attached to the vehicle was a white horse whose hide was even whiter than the snows of Greenland.

The question which is agitating me at this moment is, "Can there be any psychology or other connection between the appearance of the white horse and the red-headed girl? And if so, just how red must the hair be to assure the appearance of the white horse? I instinctively I looked toward the fourteenth street and, behold, there was an old-fashioned buggy driven by an old lady with hair as white as milk and attached to the vehicle was a white horse whose hide was even whiter than the snows of Greenland.

If The Post will answer this query, I am sure The Post will be well paid through the knowledge that its efforts will afford pleasure to thousands of its old subscribers who recall the red-headed girl-white-horse discussions of the past. RUFUS EQUUS. Washington, July 28.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Permit me to add a word to the statements of "Voyageur" as contained in his letter in this morning's Post. Undoubtedly the traffic rules regarding turns are confusing to tourists. I have noted with much interest Director Eldridge's commendable effort to clear up the situation by means of printed circulars describing the regulations. However, it strikes me as infinitely more logical, to say nothing of less expensive, to have the rules posted conspicuously on the standards supporting the signals. In this way, there would be no chance of any driver being overlooked in the distribution of instructions. The efficacy of such posting of instructions in daily demonstration at the silent sentinel in the Capitol grounds, where, despite a necessarily intricate method of traffic control, few, if any, tie-ups occur.

BREAD rolls need not be considered other than a summer dish. Mrs. Scott. They do not require the heat of the oven for as long a period of time as many of the meat or meat substitute dishes that are of necessity a part of our summer menus. We can not live entirely on foods that do not require the heat of the oven, for we should soon lose our eager anticipation of the evening meal, which is in most homes the substantial one. Monotony is one of the dangers of summer cookery—we are restless, and it is hot, and the path of least resistance is apt to beckon. If you are to be at home (and rolls do require rather studied attention), it will be a delightful innovation to prepare them for supper, and let the rest of the menu be light in accordance. I shall give you a recipe here, with full directions, and a menu which, in addition to our usual Saturday menu that is planned for the Sunday dinner, will provide for tonight.

Scald 2 cups of milk and turn it into the bowl in which you intend to mix your bread. Add ¼ cup butter, 2 tablespoonsful of sugar, 2 teaspoonsful salt and allow to cool until lukewarm. Then add a yeast cake dissolved in ¼ cup of lukewarm water and 3 cups of flour. Beat this mixture thoroughly and set aside in a warm place to rise. Cover well to prevent a crust forming, and when very light and air bubbles tend to form on top, cut down with a case knife and add about 2-3 cups of flour. Knead well, return to the bowl and let rise again and when light out dough, remove to a floured board and knead again thoroughly. Then roll your dough out until it is about ½-inch in thickness and cut out with a biscuit cutter. Work each piece into a little roll in the palm of the hand and place the rolls in rows in a buttered pan, cover and let rise until light and well puffed and bake in a quick oven from 12 to 15 minutes. Butter tops on removing from oven.

Indeed we do not use names if we in the least suspect that the reader who communicates with us does not wish us to do so. For that reason many times only initials appear for purposes of identification when we answer queries through the column. But, my dear, in answer to your question, no initials will be necessary for we are sure you will recognize your reply. Brides are as capable of success in cookery these days as the most experienced "old hand" for there are endless authoritative compilations on the book market that make success unquestionable—provided of course, no liberties are taken with the dimensions. Once a good many years ago a bride decided that she was, after four months of bliss and questionable dinners, proficient in the art of cookery and needed no more advice. She promptly made a ginger bread and forgot to put in the ginger. I am sending you a list of dependable cookbooks, inexpensive except in one instance, and informative in all instances.

Thank you for your menu, Mrs. Hill. One of these days we shall make use of it. And thank you for your pleasant letter, Mrs. Barry. We shall send you the chocolate cake recipe and the cookie recipe also if we can locate one of the order described.

May I call to attention the fact that the contest of entrees closes on Chicken en Casserole.

Clean, cut up and thoroughly wash a frying chicken, and in either bacon fat (or butter if one desires) brown it thoroughly, turning it frequently. Remove the chicken to the casserole dish arranging the pieces so that they fit together well in the bottom of the dish. Over the chicken and into the spaces between the pieces put three medium sized carrots cut in small pieces, two canned pimientos, two onions thinly sliced, two small green peppers cut in rings and three strips of lean bacon. Pour sufficient water to cover the chicken until the frying pan in which it was browned and with a knife scrape the browned material from the sides and the bottom of the pan into the water which is then to be added to the casserole dish. Bake in a slow oven until the chicken is tender when pierced. Serve with rice or potatoes or even without either one, although rice is excellent with the gravy. By allowing the dish to cool when it is removed from the oven and then placing it in the ice box over night in close proximity with the ice a delicious jellied chicken may be had for the broth in which the meat cooks becomes very rich and will jell of itself.

The recipe for creamed cucumbers has recently been a part of our column, so we shall not add it today. Banana whip has also been given in detail, but a long time ago, so we shall again give the formula. A reader has asked why we so frequently call for dishes in the column the directions for which are not given. The reason is apparent and quite simple. There would be slight variation in our menus and little room for anything else in our column, if we attempted to repeat each recipe each time a dish is suggested. Therefore we ask that friends who feel that they may have further use of a recipe, clip it out and paste it into a scrapbook, or file it in a recipe file box. When a recipe is lost, or a reader has mislaid it altogether we are delighted to send them a copy upon receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Banana Whip.
Crush six bananas and beat in three tablespoonsful of sugar. Fold in the beaten whites of two eggs and put into sherbet glasses with several small pieces of pineapple in the bottom of each. Chill and serve with whipped cream.

The

Vibrationless beyond belief

The Buick Motor Company today presents the 1927 Buick, with an engine, vibrationless beyond belief.

This achievement, we earnestly believe, will rank as one of the most important in all motor car history.

Our engineers, working in conjunction with the engineering staffs of General Motors Research Laboratories and General Motors Proving Ground have divorced the annoyance of vibration to a point never before attained.

They have given Buick motor cars a new luxury of quietness at every speed, exceptional among all cars, no matter what their price.

Never in all the twenty-two years of Buick success has there been offered such convincing proof of engineering and manufacturing leadership.

Buick offers you today a brilliant example of the quality of Buick craftsmanship—

Confident that acquaintance with its performance and value will fix in mind the conviction that money can buy nothing finer—

Certain that you will discover in this great new car, further evidence of the deep meaning in the long-standing Buick pledge: "When Better Automobiles are Built, Buick Will Build Them."

Four Vital Engine Improvements

To produce the silent power-flow in the 1927 Buick, Buick engineers have made four fundamental improvements in the structure of the famous Buick Six-Cylinder Valve-in-Head engine. These include a Counter-Poised Crankshaft, a Torsion Balancer; new light-weight pistons; and then a Completely Cushioned Engine, insulated and isolated by rubber mountings, fore and aft, from all metallic contact with the chassis.

Buick Also Introduces The Vacuum-Cleaned Crankcase

Another revolutionary improvement in the 1927 Buick is the vacuum-cleaned crankcase. Crankcase moisture, the vicious foe of engine efficiency, is now drawn out of the crankcase before it has an opportunity to do harm. The crankcase is cleaned and kept free of dilution by the Buick Vacuum Ventilator, a new device, operated by the air flow; positive and certain in action, and without a single moving part. The oil in the crankcase of the 1927 Buick need be changed only four times a year!

GREATEST BUICK EVER BUILT 1927

Other vital improvements

And Thermostatic Control of Cooling

Buick performance is now made more certain, more pleasant and more economical by thermostatic control in the cooling system. Water circulation is halted and the heat held in the engine, until the proper operating temperature is reached. Thermostatic Control also assists the Vacuum Ventilator in its work, by reducing the use of the choke.

Other Refinements To Eliminate Noise

Gear noise is removed by Buick's new giant-tooth transmission. This transmission is quiet in all of its speeds. Further quietness has been obtained by an entirely new muffler design. This minimizes exhaust noise, with no power loss.

Balanced Wheels for Smoother, Safer Driving

And in this remarkable new car, Buick introduces balanced wheels, another contribution to easier and safer driving.

The Buick chassis now offers a perfection of performance long looked-for—but never before found in any motor car.

Millions saved by volume production have been used to develop Buick quality to the point where nothing could be finer.

Luxurious New Bodies by Fisher

The princely beauty of the new Fisher Bodies is in thorough keeping with the unusual and incomparable performance standards now attained.

Rich Coronation Colors in Duco dress these cars in striking custom finishes. Refinements of profile with low-gravity body construction impart an air of fleetness, grace and high quality. And, in the creation and selection of the upholsterings and interiorware, artistic taste is unmistakably reflected.

And Here is the Most Remarkable Fact About This Remarkable Motor Car—Value!

This greatest of all Buicks is the greatest of all Buick values. Buick volume has permitted engineering research and development on a scale far beyond the reach of most manufacturers.

Constant improvement has leveled one price barrier after another, until now you are offered, in this new Buick, a car as fine as money can buy, at the price of cars of very ordinary quality.

This car will convince you, as no other car can, that money can purchase nothing finer—no matter how much you may be able to spend!

FOUNDER OF GRANGE HONORED IN GRANITE IN CEMETERY HERE

Farmers' Fraternal Organization Dedicates Monument to Oliver H. Kelley.

UNVEILING IS MADE BY DELAWARE GOVERNOR

Eulogy Delivered by Master Taber; Tribute Also Paid to Temperance Lane Kelley.

The National grange, a farmers' fraternal organization with 1,000,000 members, paid tribute to its founder, Oliver Hudson Kelley, at a picturesquely dramatic ceremony in Rock Creek cemetery yesterday afternoon. The occasion was the unveiling of a granite monument erected on the Kelley family lot.

Gov. Robert P. Robinson of Delaware, treasurer of the National grange, removed the flags that enveloped the monument. Formal presentation of the monument to the National grange was then made by W. H. Landvoigt, executor of the Kelley estate and for many years Mr. Kelley's secretary.

The monument was accepted by Louis J. Taber, of Columbus, Ohio, master of the National grange. He promised that the grange would assume its perpetual supervision and care of the monument, which included the placing of wheat, fruit and flowers on the monument, was prepared by officers of Potomac grange, No. 1, of this city.

"Father" Kelley Eulogized.

In his eulogy of "Father" Kelley, Master Taber said:

"It was a century ago—January 7, 1826—in a little cottage on a quiet Boston street, that Oliver Hudson Kelley first saw the light of day. He inherited those qualities of love and liberty, independence and progress that characterized New England's early history. Educated in the public schools and given a broad knowledge of general affairs, he soon caught the spirit that led westward the Star of Empire, and finally settled on a Minnesota farm, becoming accustomed to the problems, the privations and the opportunities of Western agriculture life.

"A scholar, a student, a philosopher, a man of vision and of courage. If at times a dreamer, he became as far as organized agriculture in America was concerned, a man of destiny, for to him was given the vision, the faith and the courage to lay the foundation of rural organization in America, and to become a pioneer, blazing untrodden paths for future men to follow.

"His keen insight into the political and social problems, his knowledge of fraternal history and his experience in Masonry, coupled with his experience as a representative of the government in the war-torn sections of the South, gave a background upon which to build a working outline for a farm organization that should endure."

Had Faithful Coworkers.

Mr. Kelley had faithful coworkers, Master Taber said, and these were the "Seven Founders of the Grange." But the real founder, he said, was "Father" Kelley. It was he who conceived the work and planned it; he who wrought most and sacrificed most.

"It is well to remember," said Master Taber, "that the grange charter is different from that of any other farm organization that has since appeared or is now existing in America. A careful analysis reveals that it is distinctly different from any farm organization found in the Old World. It is, first, a great farm fraternity, with a constitution and ritual drawn from inspiration from nature and nature's God; with a social and educational program seeking to educate and elevate its membership, rural life and mankind; with a business and cooperative background aimed toward the economic betterment of those who toil with all of this the grange stands unique in admitting woman to full voting and official equality with man, giving to her virtues and graces the exalted position and crowning glory of the order."

Master Taber paid a glowing tribute to Temperance Lane Kelley, wife of the grange founder, and their four daughters. Mrs. Kelley, he said, constantly encouraged her husband, and at one critical time gave him every cent of a legacy which she had received from an uncle in New York.

Daytona Shores Suit For Receiver Dropped

P.)—Suit for dissolution and a receivership for Daytona Shores Co., instituted recently in Miami by eight holders of certificates of the company, has been withdrawn after a conference today between counsel for the company and Miami men. It was stated that withdrawal was made after the Miami men had been informed of reorganization plans which have been virtually completed. These are said to show that the company is on a sound financial basis.

Man Hurt in Auto Upset

Morris Manuel, 533 Thirty-sixth street, Norfolk, Va., received lacerations on the hands yesterday when his automobile overturned after being in collision with an automobile driven by Albert W. Sager, 34 years old, 1728 Massachusetts avenue southeast, at Fourteenth street and Maryland avenue northeast. Manuel was treated at Casualty hospital.

MANILA'S WATER WORKS SHOW FILIPINO LAXNESS

Malaria Outbreak Is Met With the Advice to Build a New Hospital.

QUININE HALTS DISEASE

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Manila, July 30.—By his inspection of the Manila water system today, Col. Carmel Thompson, President Coolidge's personal investigator, has stumbled on one phase of the situation that certainly demonstrates clearly the value of American supervision of the islands in their present state of insular development.

The metropolitan water district is making improvements costing 12,000,000 pesos, or $6,000,000, which include Novaliches dam and a 6-foot conduit to carry water 50 kilometers to Manila. Two American contractors doing the work with native labor, found the task threatened with complete collapse because of malaria. They appealed to the Philippine health service.

The health officers merely recommended that the contractors build a hospital. A special officer accomplished nothing.

They next appealed to Governor General Wood's staff and Maj. A. Parker took hold. He found a total of 25 deaths and as many as 50 new cases a week, and an increasing refusal by the outside natives to enter the dangerous territory. He secured the assistance of a young doctor, who gradually reduced the weekly figures until zero was reached, and the work is proceeding regularly.

It was a simple matter of using quinine, but the Filipinos lacked the administrative ability to handle the situation.

It was learned today that lack of appropriation by Congress had further crippled Col. Thompson. In response to his request for authority to use the transport Merritt, which is lying idle, the War Department cabled that there were no funds to put it into service. The cutter Bustamante, used on the colonel's first interisland trip, has gone on a cable repair job until August 9, meaning a delay in his trips to Visayas islands and Mindanao.

Meanwhile, his investigation of industries, such as copra and coconut oil, is beginning tomorrow.

Col. Forbes Directs New Prison Buildings

Chicago, July 30 (By A. P.)—Col. Charles R. Forbes, former head of the United States veterans' bureau, and now serving a two-year sentence in the Federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., has been placed in charge of the prison's construction work. Federal officers said today. He is supervising the erection of new buildings, including an administrative building.

Forbes' knowledge of engineering and his eagerness to hold the post won him the appointment. He was convicted here with the late John Thompson, wealthy St. Louis contractor, of fraud in letting contracts for disabled veterans' hospitals.

TRAIN'S PASSENGERS, ASLEEP, ARE ROBBED

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 30.—Six Pullman passengers sleeping in a car parked here, were robbed of all their money early today in their berths. The car had been detached from the New York train. Among the victims were John McMullen, son of former Comptroller McMullen, and William W. Brown, of the Maryland State roads commission. Brown lost $69. Money was taken from under the pillows of the sleepers.

The first knowledge the railroad officers here had of the robbery was at 11 o'clock when a wire was received from Pittsburgh stating the Pullman conductor had lost his trousers. These were found later at Paterson's Creek, W. Va., 8 miles east of here. The robbers had thrown them out of the window.

Another passenger who had but one shirt, was also in a predicament. The shirt, also thrown out the window, was found near the spot where the conductor's trousers lay.

MORE UTILITIES AID FOR SMITH REVEALED

also listed several smaller contributions and declared that those given today with the ones mentioned Monday—Insull $125,000, Smith $5,000 and himself $75,000—made up the total of the $253,547 which he had testified was spent on Smith's behalf.

Before disclosing the names of the additional contributors Moore told the committee that at the outset of the campaign Smith, who is still serving as chairman of the State commission controlling utility rates, had asked that he be not obligated in any way in the matter of campaign contributions.

"I have done so it has been a political mistake," Moore declared.

Now Testifies Freely.

The Illinois Republican national committeeman, who proved a sonorous orator, testified freely this time after explaining that he had asked that the confidence imposed in him in the matter of contributions should be respected.

Moore also told the committee that he had consulted with Smith as to whether he should give the names to the committee and had been told that if he received any money confidentially he should use his own judgment about telling about it.

Asked about a statement by Timothy P. McCarthy, an East St. Louis newspaperman, that Smith managers had offered $6,000 to Charles Scendry, president of the Foreign Voters league, for the support of that organization, Moore said he knew nothing about it.

Would Have Stopped It.

"If I had any knowledge of any such transaction, I certainly would have stopped it," he said. "For the sentiment in East St. Louis was for Col. Smith because of his anti-world court position."

From James A. White, of Murphysboro, Ill., who supported Senator McKinley, and who was the only other witness of the day, the committee learned that White had spent $1,475 of his own money in his country in the campaign for which he had not been reimbursed. Most of this money went for hiring automobiles and watchers at the polls.

How much did you pay watchers? asked Chairman Reed.

"From $5 to $15 a day," White replied.

"Were they paid according to their influence?"

"Yes."

Reed Goes to St. Louis.

After the adjournment of the committee sessions Senator Reed left for St. Louis, where he has a week-end engagement, while Senator La Follette, the only other member here, returned to Wisconsin to resume his speaking campaign against the renomination of Senator Leonard. Republicanism is opposed by Gov. J. J. Blaine, running as the "progressive" candidate. Senator La Follette does not plan to return to Chicago if Senator King, Democrat, Utah, arrives here before the sessions are resumed. Senator King telegraphed that he expected to arrive here this week.

FARMER MUST HELP SELF, SAYS RITCHIE

Berlin, Md., July 30 (By A. P.)—The farmer has been outdistanced in the economic development of the country and the solution of his difficulties is neither in cooperation nor price-fixing from Washington, Gov. Ritchie told the Maryland Horticultural societies today.

"The world of industry has overtaken the farmer," said the governor. "There is not the proper equilibrium between the fruits of industry and the farm."

"I am not unduly pessimistic about the farmer anywhere. I believe he has the enterprise and grit to see and solve his troubles, and I believe the problem is essentially one of economics, the solution of which should not be left to the doctrine of the day, the deals and trades of politicians."

"You can not legislate prosperity for the farmer, and yet, right or wrong, the farmer feels that the government has done much for business and should do something now for him."

"Equilibrium between the farm and industry has not been maintained, because an unduly high protection for the products of industry, while the products of agriculture are not protected, means a profit on industry but a tax on agriculture."

Advocates of Rubber Export Win Victory

London, July 30 (By A. P.)—American and British interests which have been fighting restriction of rubber exportation from the British fields, gained a victory today, with the indication that 100 tons of rubber will be allowed to be exported from Malaya to be continued for the coming quarter.

The colonial office announced in April that a new method of output restriction would go into effect in August if rubber fell below 21 pence (42 cents) a pound, whereas the original restriction scheme aimed at keeping the price over 15 pence. The official average price for rubber quarter ended today was found to be just over 21 pence.

now being used for bedrooms. One building built to house 120 patients now houses 263 patients. Other buildings are more or less crowded to the same extent.

There is little likelihood of diminishing demands upon the institution, according to Dr. White.

Criminal Patients.

Aside from the Veterans' Bureau load, some relief might be afforded through the transfer of criminal patients, but the disposal of these patients is said to present a serious problem.

They were committed to the hospital for the duration of their sentences, and the hospital has an appropriation to return them to their residences when their sentences have been completed. They accumulate from all Federal jurisdictions, including the District. Theoretically, St. Elizabeths is to turn the patients over to the State hospitals upon the expiration of their sentence, but the matter of so relieving itself of them has thus far presented a problem.

The estimates submitted to the budget bureau place the cost of the new buildings at between 2,500 and 3,000 a bed, a figure which elicited criticism from members of the House appropriations committee. Dr. White pointed out, however, that the buildings must be of fire-proof construction, and the cost was no more than the Veterans Bureau expended for its hospitals, it was said.

"LET'S GO"=To Church

OUR HOMES

"Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it."—Prov. 22:6.

THE future of this country depends upon the home life of our children. The principles which are inculcated in the child today will determine the length of time this nation survives and the position it will occupy among the nations of the world. The ideas of right and wrong which our children are receiving from their fathers and mothers today will largely make up their rules of conduct and processes of thinking when they take up the reins of business and social life as we give them up.

The influence which we are exerting consciously or unconsciously will go on from generation to generation. The responsibility is ours and cannot be side-stepped. We are all parents or we are examples to children. Are we doing our full share to set before the coming generations the principles which stand for progress and life? In the home rests the future of this nation and the other nations of the world.

The church is the outstanding force which is stimulating, cementing and upholding our homes. Without the support of the church the standards of our home life will be lowered and the heart of national life will decay.

DOUBLING OF PAVED ROADS IN 10 YEARS CALLED NECESSITY

Surveys Show That Traffic Is Fast Outgrowing Its Facilities.

HIGHER TAXES ON AUTO OWNERS HELD CERTAIN

One-Way Boulevards Between Cities Regarded as Due Development

By WILLIAM P. HELM, JR.
Hard-surface road building within the United States must be virtually doubled, as compared with present standards, within the next ten years to keep pace with the growth of motor vehicles, especially commercial trucks and buses.
Where $1,000,000,000 a year is being spent now, it is inadequate to meet the demands upon the rural roadways. Probably $2,000,000,000 a year must be spent by 1936 in building new roads, widening existing ones and providing alternate routes—some of them one way—between nearby cities.

Such are the conclusions drawn from fragmentary surveys undertaken by the Federal government and private trade organizations directly interested in the welfare of motor transportation.

Even the roadbuilders and motor makers have scarcely realized the magnitude of America's automobile traffic today. When one speaks in terms of millions of passenger cars and trucks and hundreds of thousands of miles of surfaced roadways, the terms are meaningless. They cannot be grasped. But there is another way to measure the problem, and an attempt has been begun but lately to apply the more understandable method.

In Cook County, Illinois, where the city of Chicago straddles its 3,000,000 inhabitants over many square miles, the federal government estimates that by 1936, or only four years hence, a single highway—Western avenue, near the city line—will be carrying 23,600 motor vehicles a day. That means a stream of motor vehicles, three abreast, extending in an unbroken line for 50 miles and rolling as closely to one another as safety will permit.
Traveling at 25 miles an hour, this stream of traffic would require two hours to pass a single point.

Coming Traffic Jam.
But that is not all, of course. Five other routes, reads the federal report, "may be expected to carry a daily average of 10,000 motor cars near the city line." That means 75 miles more of motor vehicles, traveling three abreast over the five other highways, of a stream of motors 15 miles long flowing in unbroken traffic over each of these highways.

As these highways stand today,
it cannot be done.
In Connecticut the Federal bureau of public roads has completed a survey of present and prospective traffic conditions, the result of which is to be announced within the next few days. This survey shows that in 1923, when traffic was much lighter than now, motors traveled nearly 700,000,000 car miles in that tight little State alone.
About 60,000,000 of that figure were truck-miles on 1,114 miles of improved highway. Of passenger cars, nearly half enumerated were being used for business purposes.

The Federal investigators found an amazing situation with respect to the volume of freight haulage in some Connecticut communities by motor truck. Between New Haven and Bridgeport, for instance, 75.2 per cent of all freight was moved by motor truck, the railroads getting the other one-fourth. On the longer haul, the steam roads carry the bulk. Between New York and Waterbury, for instance, motor trucks transported less than 9 per cent of the total freight, the distance being 88 miles.

Four years hence, or in 1930, the investigators predict, motor traffic in Connecticut will be nearly twice as heavy as it is today. Then, to quote the language of the report:

Must Double Highways.
"The post road may be expected to carry a daily average of 12,700 vehicles at the New York line and an average of 9,000 vehicles per day on the section between Greenwich and New Haven."
The tremendous volume of traffic will require, by 1930, extensive enlargements of the traffic capacity of these routes or the opening of alternate routes in order that adequate highway service may be provided. Improvements on routes of secondary traffic importance will also be required, particularly routes at present improved with lower types of service.

These two random instances are typical. They tell the story of needed highways near every big and many smaller communities.
Taking the country as a whole,
there are about 18,000,000 motor vehicles in commission at the present time. Of that number, about 2,500,000 are motor trucks. What would happen if every owner of a car decided to get out on the road at the same time?

The motor trucks alone would make a double line of traffic extending from Boston to San Diego, massed solidly, with only 3 or 4 feet spacing between cars. The passenger vehicles, in addition, would form a double line of traffic 25,000 miles long, equal to the distance around the world at the equator.
Every hard-surfaced cross-continent highway would be choked with motor cars massed solid, and thousands of miles in the secondary highways would be in the same sad plight.

With traffic congestion in that condition, Americans are demanding annually 3,500,000 more cars and trucks, of which at least 1,000,000
are used to swell the total number of vehicles, the other 2,500,000
going to replace worn-out vehicles. Every year, at the present rate, the line of motors on our

Turkey's Bobbed Hair Girl Bandit Captured

Constantinople, July 30 (By A. P.).—Fatima, Turkey's bobbed-hair bandit, has been captured. Dressed as a man and armed with daggers and revolvers, Fatima had terrorized the villagers of the Taurus mountains for several months.
Fatima's undoing came when the band kidnapped several girls to gratify her desire for female company and, incidentally, to train them for brigandage. State troops were put on the track, capturing the leader and the girls in her mountain hiding place. All the kidnapped girls had had their hair bobbed and were in possession of revolvers.
The men had fled.

highways is being lengthened by nearly 3,000 miles of new motor cars, placed end to end and massed solid.

Plenty of Money for Roads.

The present highway system has reached the danger point of congestion in the view of expert traffic men and the nation is face to face with a road-building program the like of which has never been seen before. Either that, or the efficiency of the business and nonbusiness motor from now on will be steadily lessened by further congestion.

Money to build the new system is available, of course, although at the present time the automobile owners themselves are contributing,
through various forms of taxation,
almost enough to pay the entire bill at its present rate of $1,000,000,000 a year. More money can be had by higher taxes and these are inevitable. Especially, in all likelihood, will the commercial motor vehicle be taxed much more heavily during the next few years than at present. They use the roads for hire and nobody, not even themselves, will quarrel with a policy under which the burden of maintaining the roads falls heaviest upon them.

There is another factor than money, however. At the present time, the road-building forces of the nation can not construct much more, in mileage, than they are now building. They are taxed to capacity and their forces must be greatly increased to furnish the manpower for new highways. It is a tremendous assignment, almost equal to that placed on the United States in 1917, when she found herself confronted by the necessity of building a mammoth merchant marine. America did that, and there is no question that she will be able to enlarge her road-building plant to meet the new need.

More highways, higher license fees and gasoline taxes, a great new army of road-builders, one-way traffic boulevards between cities, wider thoroughfares and, in all like-hood, higher speed limits, running to 45 or 50 miles an hour on wide one-way highways in the open country—these are the things expected within the next decade as the result of the marvelous growth in motor traffic, and especially in the use of commercial motors for transporting passengers and freight.

Jail-Breaker's Pistol Again Aids His Escape

St. Johnsbury, Vt., July 30 (By A. P.).—Frank George (Dell) Fellows, escaped convict and gunman, who has broken jail in Tennessee and Vermont, has reappeared in northern Vermont, the authorities disclosed today. Harry Dickens State automobile inspector, said that he saw Fellows when he went to Irasburg, Vt., to look over a car reported stolen, but that the man covered him with a revolver and escaped.

Police of many States have been searching for Fellows since last November when he escaped from the Nashville penitentiary. Poses and two national guard detachments hunted him vainly.

Sunday Sesqui Foes Told to Aim Higher

Philadelphia, July 30 (By A. P.).
Employees should not be penalized for violations by the sequentianal exposition of the Sunday laws,
but if those interested in the prosecution are sincere they should go after the board of directors, declared Judge Edwin O. Lewis in common pleas court today.

The court made the comment on the appeal of E. L. Austin, director in chief of the exposition, who had been fined $4 and assessed $4.50 by a police magistrate for violating the Sunday blue laws of 1794. The prosecution was brought by the Methodist men's committee. Judge Lewis said he would reserve decision.

Princess of Spain In U. S. for a Visit

New York, July 30 (By A. P.).—
A princess arrived on the Aquitania today to visit "one of my two loves," Spain and America.
The princess was Maria de Bourbon, a second cousin of the King of Spain. She visited here several years ago, and today she said she had been so pleased with American ways that she has half a mind to live here always. Asked if she might not find a love more personal than a whole country and marry an American, she replied that she could not discuss that. The princess is to visit Mrs. B. G. Dahlberg, of Chicago.

2 Shot Holding Up U. S. Alcohol Truck

New York, July 30 (By A. P.).
Two of three robbers were shot and seriously wounded today when they attempted to hold up a government truck loaded with alcohol in the Bronx. The robbers were repulsed by an armed government employee. All were captured when police trailed the robbers by following bloodstains into a house near the scene of the shooting.

6 RAILROADS REFUSE CUT IN RATE ON GRAIN

Action of Minneapolis and St.
Louis Line Protested by Numerous Cities.

Chicago, July 30 (By A. P.).— Six railroads which haul much of the middle West's grain and flour, refused today to follow the lead of the Minneapolis & St. Louis road in reducing rates on the two commodities from Minneapolis to Chicago and the Atlantic seaboard by 6 cents a 100 pounds.
The reduction on all-rail grain and flour shipments restores Minneapolis to its favorable position as a milling center and insures the increased manufacture there of grain now shipped to Chicago and Eastern points for milling.

An attack on the new schedule was at once started, however, by grain exchanges at Kansas City, Chicago, Duluth, Omaha, St. Joseph and Atchison, the Kansas City
Millers club and the Southwest Millers league, which will protest to the Interstate Commerce Commission on the grounds that the reduction is unfair to their territory.

The railroads at today's conference included the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Chicago Great Western and the Chicago, Minneapolis & Sault Ste. Marie.

AMBUSHED IN ROOM, DETECTIVE IS KILLED

Georgia State Investigator Is Believed to Be Victim of Chicago Gunman.

Atlanta, Ga., July 30 (By A. P.).
Bert Donaldson, special investigator for the solicitor general's office, found shot to death in a room of a fashionable hotel here today, was killed by gunmen imported from Chicago by Atlanta criminals.
Solicitor General John A. Boykin declared tonight.

Donaldson returned a few days ago from Chicago where he went in search of Jack Wilson, wanted here for killing William H. Cheek, a grocer, last December.

Leaving his home last night to meet persons who arranged an interview by telephone, Donaldson did not return. Today his wife and detectives began searching for him.
This afternoon a maid discovered the body in a hotel room. Donaldson died from gunshot wounds in the head.

Donaldson was ambushed in the hotel room. The position of the body and the presence of a lounge chair in a clothes closet indicated that the slayer hid there and fired without warning.

Senator and Judge Die in Pistol Duel

Mexico City, July 30 (By A. P.).
Senator Manuel Hernandez Galvan
and Judge Jesus Salcedo, both prominent politically, were shot and killed last night during a pistol fight between Galvan and Deputy Enrique Hernandez Alvarez in a saloon.

Galvan and Alvarez, political enemies, met in a saloon, drew their pistols and began shooting. Galvan dropped dead from a shot. A bullet that went wild killed Judge Salcedo, who was merely a bystander.
The affray was the outcome of

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

First Steps.

DEAR MISS McDONALD: I wish you would help me decide this question. I am a young girl in my teens and am considered nice looking and have a nice personality. I go with a fellow who is also quite popular. We both think a great deal of one another, but we do not expect to settle down for at least four years. His work has taken him away until September. Before he went he made me promise to go to dances and parties the same as always and have a good time because we are both young.

He writes and tells me of the parties and dances he goes to and I do the same. Now, all of my friends, even my parents, are telling me that if he cared for me he would not go out with any one else. Do you think it is true? I go out, but, of course, I miss him an awful lot and do not have a very good time.

He tells me he still loves me and is yearning for the day when he comes home.

I think my friends are wrong, don't you? Mother is a wonderful woman and she has my complete confidence, but do you think she is right in saying that? What does she mean?

PEACHES: I wish to safeguard you from the unhappy situation that usually develops when a girl takes a man and his first energetic avowals too seriously. Your boy may never so long as he lives see any woman who could cause his enthusiasm for you to waver. You may yet be buried side by side with your grandchildren around you. Far be it from this feeble hand to predict otherwise. But mother knows, and I know that boys "love" several times as a rule before they finally march meekly to their fate at the altar. And so mother and your friends want you to be sure not to overemphasize the soulful promises of a boy who is still young enough to be meeting new "types" and finding new thrills. You are wise and modern, to be going out at every opportunity. Your error is in "not having a very good time."

Why is this? How do you know that you may not be destined for other sentimental experiences? Child dear, I would not recognize today, if I saw him on the street the first boy who ever "loved" me. Does that seem utterly terrible to you? Believe me it is just somewhere in a good Rotarian I feel sure—but know him I would not. Yet I remember him as he was—oh-my-yes. He wore a large ring with a black stone. It helped a lot. But in the course of time some one came along wearing a mustache—or a deep dark look—and what chance had a mere ring? Yet that experience had its value—as every smallest thing that happens to any girl has. And this experience that is coloring all your days right now has its value and its purpose in your life. Do not underestimate it—but still more do not misinterpret it. It is one of the many steps that will lead you to the fulfillment of your destiny. There will be others.

Have a happy time as you go from step to step. That is what mother means.

Beauty and You

TIPS ON MAKE-UP.

By Viola Paris.

YESTERDAY, at the beach, I happened to see a woman who reminded me of a message I want to give to you. She looked charming except for one little thing, her hat was a dead flat, unbecomingly white, and she wasn't young enough or fair enough to stand it.

It is even more difficult to wear a dead-white face powder. Never does it blend with the natural complexion, and so it looks artificial and has a way of showing up all our lines and defects.

The moral is—try your best to match your powder to your skin.

EYE MAKE-UP IN DAYTIME.

A reader recently asked me what I thought of using make-up around the eyes in the daytime.

In general, I do not think that it is in good taste—at least, according to our standards. It looks obvious, artificial, and common. There may be exceptions, of course, especially in the case of near-white eyelashes, but usually it is safe to forego the mascara box or the eye pencil or shadow in broad daylight.

Some Frenchwomen blacken the lashes and brows and even use eye-shadow fairly heavily and achieve an effect of a certain charm. But that is in Paris. On our streets, it wouldn't look well. In Oriental countries, eye make-up is put on with a lavish hand. But that, again, is due to another standard of beauty.

MODISH MITZI

is too short a visit," protests Mitzi when Dad suggests that their itinerary must be carried out. They have been in Oklahoma City a week now and Dad, who is conducting this tour from coast to coast, wants to know "where next?" Incidentally, Mitzi is wearing crystal and onyx earrings and necklace to match.

Poor Polly is filled with concern. There were some other necklaces in the store where she bought the one she wears, and she intended to recapitalize her resources and get another. Dad wants to know right away where they want to stop next. With all those States in front of her she must choose one, quickly!

It looks as though every one has been shopping for trinkets. Aunt Sophia wears a new necklace of pearls and a string of brilliants in between. Aunt Sophia suggests making the next stop at the Grand Canyon. Dad thinks it a good plan. Besides there aren't any shops there and it may be a rest for the girls.

That funny little wiggly line in the corner of Arizona is the Colorado river. The Grand Canyon is all around it. The slipper with the raffia embroidered flower on the toe is something Mitzi was thinking about as she looked at the map. Likewise the pocketbook and the flowered parasol. Next stop, Grand Canyon.

Conduct and Common Sense

TRAINING OF THE VERY YOUNG.

By Anne Singleton.

A BABY is an autocrat as far as its health and well-being are concerned, but it should not be allowed to monopolize too much attention. It soon begins to understand that its parents think it of the utmost importance, and you would be surprised to know how early it tries to impose upon an adoring family; or how quickly it stops if it finds that can't be done. Babies soon learn to amuse themselves if they live with people who can not amuse them. On the other hand, a great deal can be taught to them through the medium of toys and games, and they should, if possible, be played with and amused at recognized times. Babies should never be frightened or spoken to harshly, but they should know the difference between reproof and praise; and they do, at an astonishing early age, when they beam at a flattering tone, and pout a protesting lip at the least hint of scolding. All of which means that the sooner we teach them that "no" means "no," and "yes" is a word we like to say whenever we conscientiously can, the better.

One of the wisest women in the world said that a baby's education began in the cradle, and its will began to struggle with yours from the moment it knew that it could get what it wanted by crying. Of course, that is its only way of expressing hunger or discomfort, and until some one has made sure that neither of those two causes account for its unhappiness, the poor little need not begin its education. But, if it cries for nothing, it gets nothing.

Sugar Crop in Hawaii Exceeds 500,000 Tons

Honolulu, July 30 (By A. P.).—Hawaii's 1926 sugar season is nearly ended. Many plantations will finish grinding cane in July and August.

The largest plantations late in June had manufactured 509,685 tons of raw sugar and shipped 459,985 tons.

Kansas Town Owner Of Big Bathing Pool

Garden City, Kan., July 30 (By A. P.).—In this town of 8,000 population, far from all large bodies of water, is among the largest swimming pools in the country.

The pool, 345 feet long and 210 feet wide, will accommodate 1,000 bathers at a time. It is a drawing card for scores of miles around. It was built in 1923 by the city and civic organizations.

In the winter the pool is used as a skating rink.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

WE JOURNEY TO THE SUMMER COTTAGE.

Said she a week before we left: "I've shipped the trunks and boxes. I've shipped the sheets, the potted plants, the pans, the potted meats. I've shipped the hammer and the nails. The garden hose, the tubs and pails. And everything that wouldn't break. There's really little left to take."

When came the day for us to start said she: "Now, just a minute. Bring round the car, because there are some things which must go in it."

She led me to a stack of stuff. "For this," she said, "there's room enough."

Said I: "I'll take it if I can. But I don't drive a moving van."

I packed a table and a chair. A box of fancy candles. A pillow and a flower stand. Some carpet sweeper handles. A bird cage and a globe of fish. A meat loaf in a yellow dish. A lamp shade and a box of books. A clock and curtain rods and hooks.

And all that day to Pointe Aux Barques

Where we shall spend the summer.

I hit the road, with such a load As marks the tin-shop drummer. With pipe to fit the kitchen stove And brooms and pots and pans I drove.

While merrily this line I lippled: "She said the stuff had all been shipped."

POISONOUS SPIDERS.

THERE is but one poisonous spider in North America. All other varieties are either without poison or have such a small dose of poison that they can be disregarded. On the other hand, spiders catch flies, mosquitoes and other unpleasant and harmful household insects. The nonpoisonous spiders are not averse to living in the homes of men. They are willing to be friendly if given a chance. The poisonous spider rarely builds its home within a residence, but it is not averse to living in out-buildings where men go frequently. This poisonous insect goes by such names as "the black widow," "the shoe button" spider, "the hour glass" spider, and "the seven dot" spider. It is a slimy, coal-black spider marked with brilliant red or yellow dots. The abdomen is large, round, globular, and looks like a shoe button. It is a large insect and the spread of the legs is not infrequently as much as 2 inches. The name "black widow" is given because of the color and because the female eats her mate. Biting is done by the female alone.

Dr. Emil Bogen says that American medical literature contains reports of 150 persons severely poisoned by bites of the "black widow." Of these 12 are reported to have died, although only 3 of the fatal cases are well authenticated. Dr. Bogen had the good fortune or the bad fortune to see 15 people who have been bitten by spiders. The symptoms are as follows: Very soon after the bite the bitten party complains of violent pains in the legs and abdomen. The walls of the abdomen become rigid. There is fever and high blood pressure. The reports of cases made by Dr. Bogen do not refer to much local swelling or other disturbance at the point of bite.

The customary treatment is to give enough opiate to ease the pain while nature is overcoming the poison. The pain is generally at its worst in two hours and lasts only a few hours. One or two full doses of sedative is about all that is required.

But since Dr. Bogen was seeing so many cases he had an opportunity to try a new stunt. He drew about two-thirds of an ounce of blood from a man who had recently recovered from a bite and injected it into the muscles of a man who was suffering from a bite. He thinks it worked.

But since cases are so few and far between the remedy is not practicable, even though it might have been found effective.

EATING BRAN.

C. H. S. writes: 1. Would eating two tablespoons of pure bran or oatmeal every morning be a relief for constipation from a habit?

2. What food elements does bran contain?

REPLY: 1. No, but if it did, it would be a good one. 2. Some starch and other energy foods, much mineral and vitamins.

FIRE GREATER ENEMY TO GAME THAN MEN

Anglers, However, Are Blamed for Destructive Blazes in Minnesota.

St. Paul, July 30 (By A. P.).—Touched by the moaning of countless mother birds and the misery of the entire forest family following man-caused forest fires, Ranger C. S. Lind, of the Minnesota forest service, urges suspension of fishing privileges which takes "respectable killers from the city and self-styled sports" into the woods in the dangerous spring fire season.

He estimated that 1926 spring conflagrations, 80 per cent of which were started by fishermen, "destroyed more game in two days than all the game poachers have killed in the same territory since game protection became a law."

Ranger Lind, in a report to his chief, told of the misfortune overlooking innumerable fawn, calf, moose and the smaller species. Scores of burned and maimed young deer and moose were found after the fire. Most of them had to be destroyed for lack of facilities to care for them in the isolated woods.

W. A. Hamilton Made Lieutenant Colonel

West A. Hamilton, who departed last week for Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., as major of the 42nd infantry, in charge of a group of 30 colored officers of the reserve corps, yesterday received from the War Department the commission of lieutenant colonel. His assignment at present is with the 372d regiment of the reserve corps.

He has the distinction of being the first and only colored officer of the reserves to attain the rank of lieutenant colonel. As an officer of the old First Separate battalion of District guard he served on the Mexican border and went overseas in the world war with the 372d regiment, being quartered with French troops until the armistice.

PARKS IN NEW YORK HOT-WAVE BEDROOMS

Lawns Are Thrown Open to Poor Who Seek Relief From Stuffy Homes.

New York, July 30 (By A. P.).—Parks are necessities as real as food to the congested areas of New York, in contrast with their purely decorative features in many smaller cities.

This is due to the smaller parks under which the old portion of the city was built. Large areas since have become tenements with as many as a dozen persons living in two or three rooms, with little light and inadequate air, which makes summer's heat almost unbearable. Throughout most of the year signs reading "Keep Off the Grass" are posted on all green spots. However, extremely hot weather is sufficient cause for the removal of restrictions and extra police are assigned to the parks to protect those passing the night on the grass.

Even on nights which are considered hot enough for this liberty families assemble in the parks to wait for the pavement and houses to cool before retiring.

Panama Children Give Pool Exhibits

The eight boys and girls comprising the Red, White and Blue troupe of swimmers from the Panama Canal Zone gave three exhibitions yesterday, one at the Walter Reed hospital and the others at the Wardman Park swimming pool.

The troupe, which is on a tour of the United States in an effort to instill the spirit of body-building recreation for children, thrilled its audiences with its trick swimming and acrobatic stunts. The children will depart today for Philadelphia, where they will give several exhibitions at the sesquicentennial exhibition.

NEW ENGLAND HAS BECOME "NATIONAL MELTING POT," BREWER SAYS IN NEW BOOK

That the land of the Pilgrim fathers is rapidly becoming the melting pot of America if the testimony is accurate that today "men and women of recent European birth physically possess New England and probably control its vote," given in that illuminating volume, "The Conquest of New England by the Immigrant," by Daniel Chauncey Brewer (G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York).

Continental Europeans have invaded New England and captured its every stronghold. According to this author, this situation has developed in the last 50 years, and he backs up his statements with the convincing argument of statistics. Mr. Brewer feels so strongly about the matter that he writes: "It is safe to say that no human being since history began to be written ever witnessed so astonishing a conquest of a major people." In another part of his introduction he asks the pertinent question: "How has this happened? What shall we explain why New England, which was Yankee yesterday, is European today? Greed, some answer."

Properly Mr. Brewer begins his story with a recital of the early history and settlers of New England. Every word of praise he gives to them is richly earned. Before he gives this side of the story he puts in a chapter called "Contemporary New England," which will give any loyal Yankee a pause. The United States census puts the matter in a nutshell when it designates the mass of people in New England "as foreign white stock."

In 1920 this section of the country numbered 7,400,000 souls. Less than 3,000,000 of these were of stock long resident in the country. The rest of them were persons of Nordic origin, Latins, Asiatics, negroes and the blemish and jettison of mixed races. The native rural population takes up one-third of the number of Americans who knew any yesterday in this country.

Four Races Contribute. Mr. Brewer goes on to state that "four foreign stock races alone contribute more than one-half of the inhabitants of the three largest cities of New England, Boston, Providence and Worcester. Two-thirds of the people in the ten industrial cities which rank next to those cited and contain one-sixth of the whole population of New England, are of foreign stock. The stock of these ten cities is reflected in the average factory town."

The political contribution of the Yankee of yesterday to America should be by no means despised. It was real and substantial and in New England were forged many of the sturdy pillars on which the republic was to be built.

As pioneers and planters the Yankees were a race and a link was a time when the mariners of the "rockbound coasts" sailed under their flags on the seven seas. In New England from earliest times education was spelled with a big "E" and the poorest families had their dreams of college for their young people. Trade flourished there because the workers were conscientious and made good products. Soon, however, rose the question "sufficient labor?" and at that moment began the European invasion of New England.

Percentage Harmless. The percentage at first was harmless enough—the people of Massachusetts only 14 per cent foreign born, in New Hampshire the people 35 per cent native stock. Year by year, though, the percentage began to creep up and up. Between 1849 and 1859 the gain was 36.49 per cent. From 1860 to 1880 there was a considerable pause in the flow of immigration in New England. The civil war had something to do with the situation and home ties were strengthened with the return of the volunteers. Foreign labor was more or less of a drug on the market and the Yankees themselves filled the jobs.

But in 1880 a change came and with it came the hordes of invaders. The peak was reached in 1907, when more than a million and a quarter of immigrants were received into the United States, many thousands of whom joined the army of invasion of New England. The strange part of it all is that the colonization of these Americans of tomorrow was aided and abetted by the Yankees. Municipalities and mill owners wanted their labor and they welcomed them.

The newcomers settled on the abandoned farms, worked the tobacco fields of the Connecticut valley and established their own standards of living. The Puritan families awoke to the lesser degrees of regard for sanitation and hygiene entertained by the foreigners. They made half-hearted protests, but the newcomers kept on working, their children went to the public schools, and in a generation or two the situation had changed and the victors in the cases of the Europeans had the money and the old Yankee families were moving out.

Nowadays the battle between the natives and the new Americans finds the latter the victor in the regards. The author presents a number of interesting tables to prove this point. In short, he shows "that the American birth rate lags behind that of recent foreign origin, and the American death rate far exceeds that which is prevalent among newcomers."

The upshot of it all is that in a decade or two a Yankee will be as scarce on Boston Common as hen's teeth.

There remains for the youth "of a disappearing Yankee stock" to provide the sort of magnetic leadership which will make Yankee culture permanent.

STOCKS TUMBLE UNDER NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

Reaction Follows Advance, in Which Steel Again Takes Leadership.

BUYING TURNS TO RAILS

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, July 30.—A large bull market again prevailed on the New York Stock Exchange today, and in the turnover of approximately 2,400,000 shares there was developed a nip and tuck struggle between bears and bulls, with the victory ultimately resting with the former. But it did not result in any spectacular dislodgement of long lines of stock and, coming after United States Steel and General Motors had achieved new peak levels, was somewhat hollow from the short seller's point of view.

During the early part of the session all indications pointed to a continuation of yesterday's spectacular performance. General Motors pushed forward emphatically to new as the morning progressed, but as the operations in that stock appeared to be meeting greater resistance, steel common was suddenly taken in hand and regained its position as the market leader, heading a new forward movement which brought many stocks to new high ground around midday.

Midway through the afternoon stocks tumbled under an avalanche of selling as call money rates rose 5 percent, the highest level since June 30 last. A bitter struggle for supremacy was staged around the Steel and General Motors posts, on those two premier industries converged the mentioned breaking bids, before the selling was stemmed by the appearance of powerful support perceptibly in the final hour, with prices fluctuating erratically above and below the early afternoon level.

At the close, General Motors was 2 1/2 points higher, while Steel common, dropping back 1 1/2 points, closed 2 1/2 points higher. A number of other stocks, including United States Steel, closed 1/2 point higher, while a number of others, including General Motors, closed 1/2 point lower.

An adroit diversion of buying into the rail section was welcomed, too strenuously around the two leaders for the day, the general on the railroad shares had been so the market seemed to be in order. Broken all records, movement has been in tonnage shipment has resulted in large increases in earnings, as a result of increased efficiency. It is estimated that 1930 net aggregated $100,000,000.

Continued buying in the railroad section advanced such standard stocks as Atlantic Coast Line 2 1/2 points, Southern Railway 2 1/2 points, and Northern Railway 2 1/2 points. The advance was accompanied by a sharp drop in the afternoon, but new high prices for the year and at a high level since 1913, when it touched 1913 and held 1 1/2 percent.

St. Paul stock responded to optimistic forecasts of the former president of that road, and former board chairman, Rock Island, New Haven and other nondescript paying issues also were very strong. The rise in New York stock market was the plan to lead to a new high level for the year in active buying and gained 5 1/2 percent. The strength of General Motors, and rose 5 1/2 percent, higher shares were firm on news that the British would make no further cut in exports of crude rubber. Texas Gulf Sulphur announced the plan to split up the stock.

The call money market was firmer. Although rumors of standing call loans were arranged at 4 percent, the rate was advanced to 4 1/2 percent shortly after midday. The advance was precipitated by the calling of up to $20,000,000 to that hour in preparation for the large August 1 disbursement.

Today's movement could hardly be said to have shown that stocks were too high, though that opinion was gaining recruits in larger measure. Recovery of the mortgage was recorded in the bond market was irregular. French francs to $4.83-16 and at 2 1/2 cents. Both lire and Belgian francs were lower.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York, July 30 (By The Associated Press).—Prices in today's curb market worked higher during the early trading, but then fell when the "big board" coincident with an increase in call money rates. Quotations of most active issues changed with speculative interest confined, as it has been, to a small group of stocks.

Oils continued to fluctuate within a relatively narrow trading area, in response to rumors of an increase in production of water-associated oil. A loss of about 100,000 barrels in the Gulf of Mexico was one consequence in the oil market.

Quick jump of over 5 points in feature in the industrial group. New American Smelting, voting trust, Warner Bros. Pictures, and other stocks were held. Rubber, coal and American rayon products touched new 1925 low. The market was quiet about the public utilities, which advanced over a point. Valhalla advanced over a point to a new high at 27 1/2.

BOND LIST IN GENERAL SEEKS LOWER LEVELS

Many Foreign Issues React Fractionally in Lifeless Trading.

FEW INDUSTRIALS GAIN

New York, July 30 (By the Associated Press).—Stiffening call money rates resulting from heavy south-and requirements placed a damper on bond trading today, forcing prices generally to lower levels. A falling off in the volume of business combined with narrow price changes resulted in an uninteresting market session.

Fractional recessions were the rule in the foreign list, with the declines in Mexican obligations ranging from 1 to 2 points. European issues, after maintaining a firm tone of the week, eased off on profit-taking. Chilean mortgage bonds 5 1/2% were depressed by the sale of an additional $20,000,000 bond issue for the institution.

With the exception of convertible issues, which followed the upturn in stocks, railroad issues merely marked time and closed the day with price averages virtually unchanged.

Chesapeake & Ohio 5s, Norfolk & Western convertible 6s, St. Paul 4 1/2s and Lehigh Valley 4 1/2s recorded the only noteworthy advances. These advances were offset by the heaviness of Atchafalpa General 4s, Union Pacific first 4s, Norfolk & Western divisional 4s and International Great Northern 5s.

In the industrial group, higher prices for Bethlehem Steel 5s, Consolidation Coal 5s, Donnan Steel 7s, Republic Iron & Steel 5 1/2s and Remington Arms & Contract 5 1/2s. The selling of North American Cement 6 1/2s and Botany Mills 6 1/2s.

Supplementing the recent $30,000,000 loan for the United States Works Corporation of Germany, an additional $10,815,000 of the company's bonds have been placed privately by Dillon, Read & Co.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

New York, July 30 (By P.).—Call money strong, high; low 4%; closing bid, 4 1/2%; 5 time money, 4 1/2%; 6 months, 4 1/2%; prime mercantile paper, 4 1/2%; silver, 25¢.

PARIS MONEY MARKET.

Paris, July 30 (By A. P.).—Prices moved irregularly on the bourse today. Three per cent rentes, 47 francs centimes; four per cent, 48 francs 50 centimes. Five per cent loan, 52 francs. The dollar was quoted at 41 francs 40 centimes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, July 30 (By Associated Press).—Unabated drought in Canada forced wheat prices to lower levels, but heavy profit-taking on the options brought a recovery in closing quotations for wheat were unsettled at the same as yesterday's. Oats and corn were down, oats 1/2¢ to 1¢ off, and provisions 7¢ to 10¢.

STOCKS—RAILS AND MISCELLANEOUS.

With late prices in the wheat market, a bushel higher, notwithstanding that the Kansas City stock of wheat for the future lower, the market for the grain was unsettled. On the other hand some 20¢ of wheat were sold at 1¢ under July's second contract, which was the first time on the crop. Primary arrivals of domestic wheat today totaled 900,000 bushels, an increase of 600,000 a week back and 2,071,000 a year ago.

Good rains in Nebraska, Iowa, the Dakotas and Minnesota led to lower prices for corn. Weather over Illinois and Indiana. Oats were drab. Better cash demand both for hard and soft wheat raised the provision market.

WASHINGTON: SATURDAY, JULY 31, 1926.

MARBERRY WEAKENS IN NINTH, WHITE SOX WIN, 5-4

Derby Today Has Cheap Field

Only 7 Likely to Start in $100,000 Race at Chicago.

Boot to Boot, Display Favored; 50,000 to See Classic.

CHICAGO, July 30 (By A. P.).—A small field of seven thoroughbreds, with only three of them outstanding, will compete tomorrow for the richest derby purse in the history of the American turf. The event is the American derby, rich in tradition 22 years ago, which will be revived at the new Washington park race track for a prize of $100,000. The field probably is the cheapest that ever entered an important stake race. Indications tonight were that the likely starters would be Display, Boot to Boot, Black Maria, Bolton, Smiling Gus, Open Hand and David L.

The race, over the derby route of 1 1/4 miles, in the opinion of turf experts, probably will be a three-cornered battle involving Display, Boot to Boot and Black Maria.

Boot to Boot, the entry of Col. E. R. Bradley, of Lexington, Ky., has a record of placing in five successive derbies this season, and with Display, the winner of the $50,000 Prekness, probably will be top-heavy favorites. Display, in addition to winning the Prekness, finished second to Crusader in the Coney Island derby.

THE PICK OF THE NATION'S SWIMMERS ARE ENGAGED IN A RECORD-BREAKING ORGY AT THE NATIONAL A. A. U. MEET AT PHILADELPHIA being staged in conjunction with the Sesquicentennial. Below is a group of stars entered in the meet. Arne Borg, a native of Sweden, but performing under the colors of the Illinois Athletic club, yesterday smashed his second world's record in two days. He won the 1-mile free style event in 21 minutes 46 2/5 seconds, breaking the record for the distance by 48 seconds. Walter Spence, who finished second in the 3-mile swim here last year, yesterday set a new world's record for the 800-meter medley.

BORG WINNER OF 1-2 MILE SWIM

Miami Schoolboy First in Fancy Dive at "Sesqui."

PHILADELPHIA, July 30 (By A. P.).—One world's record was shattered and another established in the National A. A. U. swimming championships in the sesquicentennial pool today.

Arne Borg, Illinois A. C., Swedish star, who yesterday broke the half-mile mark, continued his record-breaking performance today by clipping 47 2/5 seconds from the mile mark in the outstanding performance of the meet. He swam the mile in 21:46 2/5.

Walter Spence, Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A., set a new record when he negotiated the 330-yard medley swim in 2:25 2/5. Walter Lauffer, Cincinnati, finished second, 5 yards behind the winner.

Pete Dejardins, of Miami, Fla., present national champion and indoor fancy diving champion, retained his championship in the ten-foot platform diving tests, on scoring the highest point total ever made in a national championship.

BORG's performance in the mile swim was one of the most remarkable in the history of American swimming. Using a combination American and Australian crawl stroke, the lanky Swede won the event by a margin of almost 125 yards.

Harry S. Gantry, of Philadelphia, unattached, was second, and Clarence Ross, of the New York A. C., third. Joseph Farley, of the New York A. C., was last. The Swede shattered his own record of 22:34 in the mile. He established this mark in Sydney, Australia, January 30, 1924.

Warren Kealoha, of Honolulu, was third, and Allen Cross, of Erie, Pa., fourth in the 330-yard medley. In retaining his title in the fancy diving competition, Dejardins, who was second to Al White, of Leland Stanford university, in the olympic fancy diving events, gave a beautiful exhibition of all-around springboard ability.

The judges gave the 19-year-old Miami schoolboy an average of 153.87. David Fall, of Leland Stanford university, was given second honors in the diving with an average of 139.20. Fall won second place in the high diving competition in the olympics. Stanley Kistler, of Pasadena, Calif., was third with 130.11 points and Walter Cobeth, of Northwestern university, was fourth.

George Murray newest member of the Harriemen and Walter Johnson will face the Browns in the first two games of the St. Louis series which opens in the Mound city tomorrow. Harris, however, is not sure as to the order in which he will start this pair.

Walter Johnson "out-managed" Eddie Collins in the "Amateur day" game between two midwest teams which preceded the regular fracas. Either that, or he had the better combination for his charges won 2 to 1. Both pilots were on the side lines cheering the kiddies on during the battle.

On the Nats' last trip through the western sector, Manager Harris aroused the ire of some of the fans because he had the sense and nerve to tell the truth about his team's chances in the present race. At that time he admitted to the writer that he did not believe the Nats would cop their third success pennant and stated that second place looked to be the best he could hope for.

NOT long after, when the Nats enjoyed a short reprieve, the first-place "fever" affected him again, but now he seems to be cured. "If the Yankees escape a train-wreck for the balance of the season, it looks like the pennant is theirs," he said this morning.

Bucky does not want to place the blame for his team's tumble on any single happening, though he talks freely of several. "If I had to name the most disappointing event in the race," he said sadly, "I'd probably say it was the failure of Joe Bush to win for us."

Dempsy-Tunney Bout Invited by Baltimore

New York, July 30 (By A. P.). Plans for the heavyweight championship fight between Jack Dempsey, champion, and Gene Tunney at the Yankee stadium September 16 will go on, despite the possibility of a hitch in the license committee.

At a meeting of the directors of the new Madison Square Garden corporation today, presided over by John T. Ringling, the entire situation was discussed but no announcement was forthcoming.

It is understood that ways and means for holding the contest, should Col. John J. Phelan refuse to grant licenses when he returns from his National Guard camp at Peekskill, N. Y., were considered.

Latrobe Cogswell wired Rickard today that the Baltimore stadium, seating 100,000, will be available if the New York proposition falls through. Cogswell is head of the National Boxing association.

Rickard also received a telegram from Dempsey who said that he would arrive in the East some time next week.

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 30 (By A. P.).—B. F. Clements, Chicago promoter, today filed application in United States court in Chicago for an injunction forbidding the champion to fight under any contract other than the one he claims to hold with Dempsey.

Copy of the papers was served upon Dempsey here tonight by United States Deputy Marshal E. J. Harding, of Denver.

Peck to Pilot Browns, Is Report

Prospective Buyer of Club Would Depose George Sisler.

Johnson or Murray to Twirl Today at St. Louis.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHICAGO, July 30.—The Washington fans need not be surprised if Roger Peckinpaugh is named as George Sisler's successor as St. Louis manager next season. This rumor started in the Mound city on the Nats' last western trip and the writer ran into it again this morning here in Chicago.

This capitalist is said to have told friends that, in case the deal goes through, his first move will be to depose Sisler and that he has the veteran Washington shortstop in mind for the berth. Manager Harris this morning stated that he knew nothing of the possible deal, but that he was certain that, if it went through, Roger would make an A-1 leader.

"He knows the game from A to Z," said Bucky, "and to my mind has all the qualifications needed to make him a successful pilot. As his days on the diamond as an active player are about over, nothing would please me better than to see him at the head of a big league team."

W HILE the Rajah still is a valuable man to have around and no doubt could be used advantageously by the Nats in a trade, in view of his past career and great record, both on and off the field, it is not believed that President Griffith would make it hard for him to get away from the Harriemen in case he had the chance to step into a managerial role.

George Murray newest member of the Harriemen and Walter Johnson will face the Browns in the first two games of the St. Louis series which opens in the Mound city tomorrow. Harris, however, is not sure as to the order in which he will start this pair.

Walter Johnson "out-managed" Eddie Collins in the "Amateur day" game between two midwest teams which preceded the regular fracas. Either that, or he had the better combination for his charges won 2 to 1. Both pilots were on the side lines cheering the kiddies on during the battle.

On the Nats' last trip through the western sector, Manager Harris aroused the ire of some of the fans because he had the sense and nerve to tell the truth about his team's chances in the present race. At that time he admitted to the writer that he did not believe the Nats would cop their third success pennant and stated that second place looked to be the best he could hope for.

NOT long after, when the Nats enjoyed a short reprieve, the first-place "fever" affected him again, but now he seems to be cured. "If the Yankees escape a train-wreck for the balance of the season, it looks like the pennant is theirs," he said this morning.

"They can slump and still gain ground on the rest of us," he continued, "so I guess there is nothing left for us but a fight for the runner-up place."

Bucky does not want to place the blame for his team's tumble on any single happening, though he talks freely of several. "If I had to name the most disappointing event in the race," he said sadly, "I'd probably say it was the failure of Joe Bush to win for us."

LOUIS W. LAUDICK

I like the Buick slogan. "When better automobiles are built, Buick will build them." That stands for progressive advancement and real solidity.

That's the way I feel about our products. When the earth gives us a little better than Pennsylvania, then we will make those oils. When the world gives us a little better than Rotor-gas—we will have it!

Twenty-one years ago we started serving you a little better. Products in Washington—and we're still trying to progress today.

You know—that Rotor-Gas has the Power to Pass!

BRANCH LIBRARIES CONSIDERED IN NEW FEDERAL BUILDINGS

Maj. Grant is Understood to Have Given His Approval to Suggestion.

PARKING SPACE UNDER STRUCTURES IS URGED

Difficulty of Placing Foundations in Soft Ground Bars Such Plan.

Government employees will have an excuse for misquoting Shakespeare's "most unkindest cut of all" nor will they have any more excuse for ignorance of what is to be or not to be, if officials in charge of the new government building program carry out a suggestion they have under consideration.

The means to erudition will be made available to those who want it, for a plan to provide for branches of the public libraries in all of the new government department buildings is under study. The plan is understood to have the approval of Maj. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the commission in charge of the building program, and is under study by James A. Wetmore, supervising architect of the Treasury Department, directly charged with responsibility for drafting the plans of the new buildings.

Underground Parking. Other suggestions have been advanced designed to make the new government buildings the most complete and finished of their kind in the world, and every effort is being made to anticipate future needs so that the buildings will remain satisfactory for many years to come.

Construction of underground parking garages beneath each of the large buildings, with space sufficient to provide parking for the automobiles used in department work and those of department employees as well has been suggested.

Physical difficulties, however, probably would prevent the carrying out of this suggestion. If no other considerations entered the final decision, the Department of Justice building is to be built at the corner of Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, occupying the entire square bounded by Fifteenth, Fourteenth, the avenue and D street.

Four other buildings are to be built in the government owned land south of the avenue and west of the Postoffice Department, unless plans are changed unexpectedly. All of this area formerly was low land over which the river rose in flood time and through which several creeks ran and it is probable that it will be difficult and expensive enough to build adequate foundations for the new buildings without attempting to put two or three extra floors below street level for the storage of automobiles.

Man Asks Jury Trial On Magazine Charge

Trial by jury was demanded yesterday by William H. Smith, proprietor of the Capital News Co., 227 B street northwest. He is charged with being the distributor of an art magazine containing alleged indecent pictures. Smith was supposed to have been tried Thursday but the case was continued until Monday. Yesterday he appeared in court unexpectedly and demanded the jury trial.

Smith was arrested last week in the beginning of a campaign to break up the sale of indecent magazines and pictures in Washington and taken before Assistant District Attorney Ralph Owen, who said that he would make out papers in all such cases brought before him. Should Smith be convicted it is expected that police will begin an intensive drive against alleged "salacious" magazines. His case is considered a test case and until it is settled police are allowing the drive to wane.

FIRST MISHAP HERE IN 5,000-MILE TRIP

Two California Young Women Complain of Reckless Auto Driving.

After traveling 5,000 miles without a mishap, two young women came to grief in Washington, they told Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter Fowler at police court yesterday. They were Blanche Bailey and Mary Parnas, both 20 years old, who wanted a charge of reckless driving placed against a Treasury Department driver who they said caused them to crash into an iron fence and badly damage their "Lizzie."

They have traveled all the way from Los Angeles, Calif., in their "Lizzie," they told Fowler, and haven't had even "the least little accident" in all of the 5,000 miles covered. Fowler refused to make out papers, however, as he did not consider the evidence sufficient. Court attachés were startled, accustomed as they are to strange sights, when the two women appeared, clad in sailor pants and "Don Q" hats.

They will leave today for Huntington, W. Va., where they have relatives, they said. They smiled at Policeman Raymond V. Sinclair, who had brought the women and the truck driver, Arthur Taylor, colored, 1233 Fourth street northwest, into court.

POLICE TO ENFORCE DISTRICT WEED LAW

Instructed to Notify Property Owners That They Must Be Cut.

Policemen were given the difficult task of enforcing the law requiring property owners to cut weeds without arresting any one, in a memorandum of instructions issued to commanding officers yesterday by Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police. The memorandum said: "Have officers, on their respective beats, note premises where weeds have been permitted to attain a height of four or more inches and where such premises are occupied, notify the occupants of the provisions of the law. Where premises are unoccupied, officers should note the name of the agent in charge, or the owner, and the commanding officer will get in touch with him."

"It should be borne in mind, however, that every effort should be made to bring about the desired result without recourse to law and to that end you will impress on persons responsible that removal of weeds will help greatly in the general plan for beautifying our city."

The lowest bid for construction of the entrance to the James F. Oyster school, Twenty-ninth and Calvert streets northwest, was rejected because it included only the brick and limestone work instead of the whole project. WASHINGTON FLIER AND MECHANIC DIE AS PLANE CRASHES

Lieut. Council and Giddens Killed as Ship
Dives Into Harbor.

CAPT. LAND ESCAPES VINEYARD HAVEN FALL

Victims Were Flying Secretary Robinson's Craft; Both Bodies Recovered.

Lieut. H. F. Council, U. S. N., and Aviation Machinist Mate C. T. Giddens, both of the Anacostia naval air station here, were killed in the wreck of their plane in Vineyard Haven harbor, Mass., yesterday afternoon, according to advices received by the Navy Department here last night.

The plane plunged in a nose dive out of a light cloud bank, into 18 feet of water from a height of 500 feet, a few moments after it had risen from the surface of the harbor.

Lieut. Council pulled the plane out of its death dive when almost on the water and the amphibian was about level as it smashed the surface.

Both the pilot and his assistant were killed in the wreck. The force with which the plane struck smashed it to pieces.

Land Escapes Death.

Capt. E. S. Land, chief of the material division of the bureau of aeronautics of the Navy Department, escaped death in the wreck by only a few minutes. He had been a passenger in the plane on an inspection trip and had left it just before it rose for its last flight.

The plane was the naval amphibian O-L-3, used by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Robinson. The aviators left the Anacostia station here Friday to carry Capt. Land to Chatham, Mass., and were on their way home when they met disaster.

Leaving Rockaway at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, they encountered heavy fog which forced the plane down. They reached Vineyard Haven about 1:15 o'clock in the afternoon. There Capt. Land got out and Lieut. Council and Machinist Mate Giddens started for Newport, R. I., to replenish their oil and gas supply, preparatory to resuming their homeward flight.

Were Homeward Bound.

Details of the wreck were forwarded the Navy Department by Capt. Land. With the two men who Fenning's Place.

FORMAL PROTEST FILED

Charges that Joseph J. Idler, adjutant of the local department of the American Legion, had asked legion adjutants in the various States to write to President Coolidge and endorse the candidacy of Capt. Julius I. Peyser for District commissioner, were contained in a telegram sent to legion national headquarters in Indianapolis yesterday.

The telegram containing the charges was sent by William F. Franklin, adjutant of the Vincent B. Costello post, of which Capt. Peyser is a member.

Capt. Peyser, who is commander of the District of Columbia department of the legion, is now vacationing in Maine. He was asked before he left if he knew that Idler was seeking to have the State adjutants of the legion endorse his candidacy for the commissionership, and he replied in the negative.

Adjutant Idler's action is clearly in violation of the act of Congress incorporating the legion, according to Franklin. Section 6 of this act reads:

"That the organization shall be nonpolitical and as an organization shall not promote the candidacy of

Milwaukee Resident Says She Was Warned Not to Tell What She Had Seen.

New York, July 31 (By A. P.).—The bodies of the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, murdered in September, 1922, at New Brunswick, N. J., will be exhumed, it was learned today from a supposedly authoritative source.

The action was said to have been decided on today as one of the first steps in the new investigation of the crime. A searching inquiry will be made into the conduct of the first investigation of the murder four years ago, officials said.

Woman Was at Scene.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 31 (By A. P.).—Convinced that she holds the key to the Hall-Mills slaying in New Jersey, in 1922, Mrs. Virginia Dorothy Harding of Shorewood, a suburb, today said she was ready to start East and tell her story to the authorities. Mrs. Harding, who said she was at the scene of the slaying on the night it occurred, and there confronted the slayer, said she would be able to identify that person. She expects to start East tomorrow.

Threats of violence have hitherto prevented her from relating her story, Mrs. Harding said. When she read that Mrs. Frances Hall had been arrested, the Milwaukee woman decided that she could no longer hold back her information. Until she removed from the East and took up her residence in Milwaukee, Mrs. Harding, who is now the wife of an oil filling station manager, said she was subjected to a campaign of intimidation. Her one confidante, Warren F. Frances, manager of the Asbestos hotel, of Manville, N. J., to whom she had told her story the night after the murder, was also in jeopardy, Mrs. Harding said. It was on his advice, she said, that she decided she would keep out of the affair when no true bills were returned by the grand jury.

POINCARE BILL PASSES; SINKING FUND NEW GOAL

Vote of Confidence Is Given on Measure to Stabilize the Financial Position.

OPPOSITION CRUMBLES

Paris, July 31 (By A. P.).—Premier Poincare's national union cabinet emerged victorious tonight after a day-long battle with the chamber of deputies opposition. The final vote of confidence giving the premier a majority of 107 came when the deputies adopted the bill, in its entirety, providing measures designed to stabilize the financial position of the country. The vote was 295 to 198.

Then the government introduced a bill for a creation of a sinking fund, and the chamber adjourned until Wednesday. In connection with this bill, it was learned that Premier Poincare has in mind the convocation of the senate and chamber as a national assemblage, believing that this procedure was necessary to preserve the existence and functioning of a sinking fund

WALSH HARD TO BEAT, BUT PARTY IS SPLIT

Republicans Solidified in Face of Discord—Wets Turn on Democrats.

(From a Special Correspondent.)

Boston, July 31.—Because it is President Coolidge's State and because of the intimate relationship between the President and Senator William M. Butler, Republican candidate for the Senate, there is no State campaign of such nationwide interest as that now being conducted in the old Bay State.

That "a vote for Butler is a vote for Coolidge" gives promise of being the keynote of the Republican campaign, given to it, not by the Republicans of Massachusetts, but by Albert J. Beveridge, former senator from Indiana. The orator of the day at the first big Republican meeting at Wenham on July 21, Mr. Beveridge declared himself for Coolidge, "first, last and all the time," assured his hearers that Mr. Coolidge would be nominated in 1928 by acclamation and elected by an overwhelming majority and then proceeded to rally the voters of Massachusetts to stand by their favorite son by returning to the Senate one of his staunchest supporters, William M. Butler.

And from a Democratic source came unexpected confirmation of Mr. Beveridge's declaration that the nation would regard a vote for Butler as a vote for Coolidge and, per contra, the defeat of Butler as a repudiation of Massachusetts's favorite son. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, an invited speaker at a Democratic rally, impudently his Democratic hearers not to permit the reelection of Butler, because the nation would regard that an endorsement of Coolidge and of the extent to which Mr. Butler's election would strengthen the President's hands.

Words Solidify G. O. P.

It is an open secret that this view had not hitherto obtained among the majority of Massachusetts Republicans. Many had not supposed, indeed, that Mr. Coolidge would be a candidate to succeed himself. And a considerable number are not yet

Mexican Arms Embargo
May Involve U. S. in Crisis

Lifting of Order Against Shipment of War Material Begun, But Change of Policy May Be Taken as Stand in Situation.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg are being drawn into the dynamite-laden Mexican situation and forced to take sides for or against President Calles, of Mexico. Circumstances in connection with the Coolidge embargo on shipments of American arms to Mexico and the subsequent program of raising this embargo are compelling the administration to become a factor—and perhaps a decisive factor—in the looming battle between Calles and his opposition.

The embarrassing features of the situation, from the administration's standpoint, will require the most delicate handling, and will be the subject of conferences between President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg. The latter is going to White Pine camp in the near future, but the exact date is uncertain.

The chief difficulty arises from the fact that President Coolidge had begun lifting the embargo on arms to Mexico when the present turmoil started, and, consequently, the tightening of the embargo now is likely to be construed as a move to place the United States in the position of supporting, if not endorsing, the Calles' policies in the internal religious struggle in Mexico.

It develops that the President's new policy of gradually lifting the embargo is in the process of being actually carried out. The ban on sulphuric acid, used in high explosives, was lifted July 7, last. The

DEATH PACT IS ALLEGED

Miami, Fla., July 31 (By A. P.).—Baron Royce-Garrett was taken into custody in a thicket a hundred yards from the Arch creek railroad station early tonight for questioning in connection with the suicide of his wife, the Baroness Royce-Garrett, who Friday night leaped to her death from the eighteenth floor of the Everglades hotel here.

Police who arrested the baron, said he was attempting to hang himself with a small piece of twine.

Baron Royce-Garrett said he read last night in an early edition of a Miami paper that an unidentified woman had leaped to death from the Everglades hotel tower. He said he knew when he read the article that the woman was his wife.

The baron's only expression concerning his wife was of disappointment that she had not kept her

St. Paul, Minn., July 31 (By A. P.).—Jealousy over alleged attentions paid to his wife led Walter H. Fletcher to beat and torture Edward Horigan, a city fireman, yesterday, police declared today.

Fletcher held Horigan, his boyhood friend, a prisoner five hours while he burned, flayed and whipped the fireman.

Both Horigan and Mrs. Fletcher denied any wrongdoing, but Fletcher told the police that Horigan admitted that he had kissed Mrs. Fletcher.

Fletcher said the torturing was done as an example to deter other men from "playing around" with married women.

Horigan was rescued by police, who found him unconscious in a chair, with blood on his face and body.

Mexico City, July 31.—Discovery of a plot against the life of President Calles was announced by the police tonight.

Seven women and two men have been detained by the police, charged with being implicated in the conspiracy.

The police assert that the plot was headed by Senorita Dolores Lemus, a young city hall stenographer.

Senorita Lemus was arrested by officers attached to the president's personal staff.

Discovery of the alleged conspiracy came about when policemen investigated reports of the organization of a movement among city hall employees to openly oppose the government's religious policy.

Admonition Is Obeyed.

Policemen standing guard outside the great Catholic cathedral in Mexico City and the other churches of the country, and the saddened faces of worshippers who streamed throughout the day into the holy edifices to pray, despite the absence of officiating clergymen, were the only outward signs that the government's new religious regulations had gone into effect.

Apparently the Catholics were obeying the admonition of the pastoral letter issued by the Mexican episcopate to remain calm and to continue their religious devotions without violence. It was in accordance with this pastoral letter, signed by the 8 archbishops and 29 bishops of Mexico, as a protest against the religious regulations that the priests withdrew from their churches today.
